ROBERT F. MADDOX IS IN THE RACE AS CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF CITY IN THE ELECTION ON DECEMBER 2

He Responds to the Call of a Mass Meeting of Citizens.

HE AT FIRST DECLINED BUT YIELDED TO "DUTY"

At Two Mass Meetings Held at Kimball Conservative and Representative Citizens Selected Mr. Maddox to Make the Race Against James G. Woodward.

Robert F. Maddox for mayor of Atlanta.

That is the action taken by a mass meeting of representative citizens at the New Kimball yesterday.

And Mr. Maddox, after first refusing to enter city politics and after being pressed and urged as a matter of civic pride and duty, yielded.

The city election is on December 2.

The citizens' morning meeting appointed a committee of twenty-five and that committee held a meeting and unanimously agreed upon Robert F. Maddox as the man to make the race for mayor in the December election. Mr. Maddox was called upon by the committee, and he declined to make the race. The committee pleaded with him for hours, telling him that it was a call by his fair city, a call of duty, and, sacrifice or no sacrifice, he must respond.

Mr. Maddox Accepted Nomination.

When the committee made its report to a second citizens' meeting in the afternoon, it was announced that Robert F. Maddox had been nominated and had accepted the nomination.

The announcement was met with great applause. The hall of the New Kimball was crowded, every seat being occupied, and many citizens were standing.

When a subcommittee notified Mr. Maddox of the action of the meeting and escorted him into the room, the ovation given him was one of the most spontaneous outbursts of enthusiasm that had ever been shown at any gathering in Atlanta.

Mr. Maddox made his speech of acceptance in a few brief remarks, in which he stated that he had agreed to become a candidate for mayor only at the solicitation of representative people and taxpayers. He felt it to be his duty to respond when such a call for the city's good and its fair name was made.

Pledged Him Their Support.

After the afternoon meeting Mr. Maddox was given a reception and every one of the 150 people present gave him their hands and pledged him their earnest support.

A motion was adopted to appoint a central campaign committee, and this will be done today.

So the second campaign for mayor this year is now on.

James G. Woodward was nominated in a white primary on September 24, winning with a majority vote over two candidates. Since his nomination he has been charged with visiting houses of disrepute while in an intoxicated condition.

There is now a charge pending against him in the police court.

He has made a public confession to the charge of intoxication.

The citizens who met in the New Kimball yesterday decided that the acts of Mr. Woodward were of such a nature as to demand a recall of his nomination for mayor; they believed it was for the city's good that a new candidate should be nominated.

A Representative Gathering.

The citizens who met and who nominated Mr. Maddox were from the ranks of her captains of industry, from her ranks of men of means, from her ranks of merchants, her professional men and her toilers. They all signed a list, constituting themselves a campaign committee, and their names appear elsewhere in The Constitution.

These citizens claimed that it was their race for mayor—Atlanta's race—and not Mr. Maddox's.

The first meeting was held Friday morning, and when the hall was filled with citizens, Asa G. Candler called it to order. He said briefly that the people of Atlanta felt called upon to let the world know that they were ready to defend their city's virtue and good name. He called upon J. K. Orr to preside. Mr. Orr was unanimously elected. Robert F. Maddox was chosen secretary. He did not dream at that time that he was to be called forward as the standard bearer of the movement he was espousing as an humble citizen.

"Atlanta Needed Help."

Chairman Orr said Atlanta needed help, and the better element must assert itself and carry the city forward to its great destiny. Touching upon the claim made by some people that a primary is always binding, Mr. Orr said:

"The claim that a primary is always binding is absurd. Suppose one of our business men had employed a man to do an important work, believing him to be a good man, and suppose this man had suddenly become guilty of some heinous crime. Would you let him drag your firm in the dust? Suppose one of your daughters was engaged to marry a young man, who, in your opinion, was worthy of her, and you were to suddenly find that he had been guilty of some disgraceful conduct. Would you hesitate to stop the wedding before it was too late? I know you would not. And, we have the same situation here today."

Henry S. Johnson arose and intro-

ROBERT F. MADDOX,
Presented by Citizens of Atlanta as a Candidate for Mayor.

"BOB" MADDOX TYPICAL OF PROGRESSIVE ATLANTA

By His Activity, Energy and Capacity, and by His Liberal Support of All Public Movements He Has Taken a Stand Among the Foremost Citizens of Atlanta.

Robert F. Maddox is one of those enterprising, aggressive, public-spirited citizens who help build cities by always taking an active interest in everything that promises to advance the good of the community or the prosperity of its people.

Whether the question before the community is an auditorium-armory, a subtreasury, horse show, or only the formation of a gun club, the little coterie of men who are furnishing the enthusiasm, the energy and the money to make it "go," invariably includes "Bob" Maddox.

It may be truly said of this aggressive young Atlantan—for he is still under 40—that whatever he undertakes to do, he does it with all his might. Where he cannot contribute his time and his genius for personal direction, he contributes his money and good will. In private life he is clean, honorable and above reproach. To church enterprises he has always contributed as liberally as to public undertakings.

He has been successful. He has taken up the business left by his distinguished father, and carried it forward with ability and phenomenal credit. From his father he inherited not only the nucleus of a large fortune, but that public spirit and ambition for his city which has advanced him to a place among the leaders in all lines of public activity.

In view of his nomination for the office of mayor by a mass meeting of business men of Atlanta, a brief resume of his work for the city may be timely.

An Atlanta Booster.

When the proposal was made to hold a great exposition in Atlanta in 1910 he was one of the most active movers in the project, his enthusiasm rivaling that of the elder Maddox for the Atlanta exposition of 1880. The recent venture fell through, but as one of the committee of twenty-five, Mr. Maddox helped to secure the $340,000 of subscriptions made toward financing that enterprise.

He helped to engineer the movement by which crystallized the enthusiasm shown for this public movement in the auditorium-armory, now nearing completion in Atlanta. He presided at the meeting at which this project was first launched. Personally he contributed $4,000 to the enterprise, and is now treasurer of the company.

As president of the chamber of commerce in 1904-05, Mr. Maddox took keen interest and devoted his abilities unreservedly to all the public movements fostered during that time, and was the inspiration of many.

Two years ago when a subtreasury for Atlanta was being discussed and seemed within the reach of this aggressive city, he made one of a committee which stormed the ways and means committee of the national congress and interviewed the secretary of the treasury and laid before them facts, figures and statistics to show that Atlanta was not only the only logical place, but the only possible place for the location of the government building. The secretary of the treasury was convinced by the Atlanta orators, but for reasons not connected with the matter in hand, declined to recommend Atlanta as the place for the building.

He was also a member of the committee which went to Washington in the interest of a military park for Atlanta.

It was due to Mr. Maddox that the first horse show, and one of the most brilliant in the history of the Horse Show Association, was held in Atlanta. He was the president of the organization, and one of the chief spirits in making it an overwhelming success.

Man of Exemplary Character.

Mr. Maddox has ever been a man of exemplary character, most temperate habits, and one who loves his home and its associations above all things. He succeeded his father as a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church, and is still one of the most faithful and active members of that congregation. He aided generously in the movement to build the handsome new Methodist church at the junction of Peachtree and Ivy streets, and when the movement for the Wesley Memorial was started contributed $2,500 to insure its success.

In the home in which he now lives—located on the corner of Ellis and Peachtree streets—Mr. Maddox first opened his eyes on April 4, 1870. He attended the common schools of Atlanta, was prepared for college at Means' High school, and entered the sophomore class of the University of Georgia. He remained through his sophomore and junior years and then went to Harvard, entering in the fall of 1888. Here he studied for one year, returning to Atlanta to enter business. He was popular throughout his college life and was a member of the S. A. E. fraternity. His father wished him to take a more thorough classical education, but business appealed to the young man more than university halls.

In June, 1894, in the city of Nashville, Mr. Maddox married Miss Lollie Baxter, a daughter of the distinguished Tennessean, Nathaniel Baxter. Their home is now a spot that attracts a most delightful circle of friends. They have two boys, Robert F. Maddox and Nat Baxter Maddox. Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, of Atlanta, is a sister of the subject of this sketch. Mrs. James A. Alexander was his aunt.

The country home of the Maddox's, Woodhaven, a place of eighty acres on Pace's Ferry road, is one of the most attractive country places around Atlanta.

Mr. Maddox's Ancestry.

Sturdy old Scotch ancestry is revered by the Maddoxes. The great grandfather of the present candidate for mayor was Notley Maddox, an officer in the revolutionary army. His grandfather was Edward Maddox, an enterprising planter, who moved from Troup

EMPEROR DEAD; DOWAGER DYING

But Reports Have Not Been Confirmed.

PRINCE CHUN MADE REGENT

Emperor Was Carried to the Death Chamber, but News of Death Was Not Given Out—Lad of Five Named as Heir.

Pekin, November 13.—The emperor of China was reported dead at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It had, however, been impossible to secure official confirmation of this announcement up to 6 o'clock this evening.

His majesty was transferred to the death chamber at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. At that hour he was still breathing.

It is reported that the dowager empress is also dying.

This rumor, if true, would explain the two edicts issued late this afternoon regarding a regency of the empire.

The foreign residents of Pekin are confused by the sudden developments of today and the various reports and rumors emanating from the palace. It is absolutely impossible to obtain any confirmation officially of the reported death of the emperor and the condition of the dowager empress. There is a certain amount of suspicion in regard to what is actually transpiring. It is believed the government will utilize the dying condition of the emperor, if he is not already dead, to screen the condition of the dowager empress.

Edicts Bear Emperor's Name.

The edicts of today bear the name of Kuang-Hsu, which indicates that he was still alive at the hour the members of the grand council were in conference at the palace. This was at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The second edict orders that Pu Wei, the son of Prince Chun, a child five years old, be trained in the palace for succession to the throne. This makes him heir presumptive.

The hour of the day at which these edicts were issued shows that the imperial family, as well as the grand councilors, before deciding upon the appointment of Prince Chun to the regency, awaited the return of Prince Ching, president of the board of foreign affairs, from the eastern tombs, whither he went to inspect the mausoleum of the dowager empress.

The Two Edicts Issued.

Two imperial edicts were issued from the palace this afternoonin quick succession. The first makes Prince Chun regent of the empire and the second appoints his son, Pu Wei, heir presumptive.

Simultaneously with the removal of the emperor from the winter palace to the death chamber in the forbidden city, the members of the grand council assembled in the palace. The dowager empress was present at this meeting and is reported to have swooned.

At 4:30 this afternoon a palace official of high standing said the emperor was still alive.

All the government offices are deserted. The palace is crowded with officials.

The New Ruler.

Prince Chun is a brother of the emperor. His name is Tsai-Fong and he succeeded to the title of his father, Prince Chun, in 1891. He is a lieutenant general of the plain white banner corps and visited Germany in 1901 as a special commissioner of the throne.

This last illness of the emperor assumed a serious aspect a fortnight ago. It was then declared that he was suffering from a grave intestinal complaint. He has persistently refused to accept western medical attendance, although medical men attached to the legations here have stood ready to give their services.

His majesty has been suffering for ten years past from chronic nephritis, which recently became complicated with diabetes and sciatica. It was admitted yesterday that his brain was affected. The members of the grand council have been in close attendance at the palace for ten days. Statements officially gazetted that his majesty was in conference with the councilors were absolutely untrue and were made for the purpose of misleading the public.

MINISTER WU TALKS OF REPORT OF DEATH

Washington, November 13.—The Associated Press dispatches gave the first report of the death of the emperor. When they were shown to Minister Wu Ting Fang, the minister commented:

"But reports of his death have been received before."

He added, however, that while he had not been notified, such notification was not to be expected immediately after the death on account of the commotion which would follow the death of the emperor. Confirmation of the death, he continued, would probably be made by the American minister at Pekin.

Through nearly all of the thirty-four years that the emperor was on the throne he was in poor health, the minister explained, and added that the emperor's death at this time would not interfere with the policy of reform which had been adopted and partially put into practice by the Chinese government. Mr. Wu explained that as the emperor had no direct descendants, the infant son of a brother of the emperor would probably be called to the throne.

A dispatch was received at the state department just before noon today from American Minister Rockhill, at Pekin, reporting that the emperor was dying. The message was sent about 2 o'clock this afternoon, Pekin time.

Requested to Withdraw Resignation.

Covington, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Rev. E. R. Pendleton, pastor of the Baptist church, has returned from his trip to Florida. During his absence from the city a meeting of the church was held and Mr. Pendleton was requested to withdraw his resignation.

DOWAGER EMPRESS OF CHINA, WHO IS REPORTED DYING.

EMPEROR WAS A WEAKLING RULED BY THE DOWAGER

During His Entire Reign Only for Four Months Has He Exercised Any Actual Power—His Puny Career.

The death of the emperor of China, if it is true, brings to an end the reign of a sovereign feeble in mind and body, who has been dominated all his life by the all-powerful influence of the dowager empress. Kuang Hsu's "reign" will be completely lost in the rule of the empress.

The emperor was born in 1870. His succession to the throne was one of the many arbitrary and illegal acts of the dowager empress, who adopted him into the succession from a generation the same as that of his predecessor, although the constitution of Manchu dynasty and precedent provide that the succession shall go to the next following generation.

Kuang Hsu was four years old when made emperor, and his reign is third in point of duration in the history of the dynasty, K'Ang Hsi and Ch'Ien Lung each having reigned and ruled sixty years.

The question of the succession has agitated the imperial family since the autumn of 1907, when it was perceived that the health of the emperor was very nearly undermined. In January, 1900, the dowager empress adopted Pu Chun, son of Prince Tuan, the boxer chieftain, heir apparent, but she disinherited him in November, 1901, at the behest of the allied powers. Since then the matter of an heir apparent has been in abeyance and the dowager empress, in whose hands the power of election was, gave no clue to her purpose or determination.

Both of Manchu Race.

The dowager empress is, and the emperor was, a Manchu; in other words, foreigners in China, and under the ban of Chinese patriots and an increasing anti-Manchu party which has sought the suppression of the dynasty and the restoration of a Chinese emperor to the throne. It has been freely predicted that the demise of the emperor would be followed by an attempt at a coup d' etat, but the imperial edicts mentioned in the dispatch from Pekin appear to have forestalled any immediate action of this kind. Kuang Hsu was a son of a brother of the husband of the dowager empress.

The dramatic occurrences of today at the Chinese capital, if the cabled reports that the emperor is dead and the dowager empress dying, are correct, draw attention to two striking figures in Chinese history—the weakling emperor of China, dominated all his life long by a stern woman, who usurped his power and his position, and the dowager empress herself, a woman of sanguinary record, relentless, cruel and ambitious, whose demise renders impossible the fulfillment of the intrigues of her old age—still to reign over China after the death of Kuang Hsu.

If the emperor and dowager empress both have died at Pekin at practically the same time, China has lost two Manchu rulers, one nominal and the other actual. But, unless the edicts of today should be reversed, the dynasty will be continued in the persons of Prince Chun, a brother of the emperor, and the prince's 3-year-old son, Pu Wei. The dowager empress has ruled the empire with a will of iron. The emperor, the court and the government have bowed down to her, and she has kept the matter of the succession to the throne entirely in her own hands for the purpose of being able to dictate who should succeed to nominal power. She desired two things—that the present Manchu dynasty be continued and the control of the successor of Kuang Hsu for her own ends.

Was of Weak Mentality.

If Kuang Hsu is dead, he has lived without having achieved any remarkable distinction as a ruler. Were not this due to the fact that the dowager empress permitted him no voice in the affairs of the empire, the same probably would have resulted from his limited mental ability. It can be said of him, however, that he rose to the height of demanding and receiving imperial power from the dowager empress for a period of four months in 1898, and that he was the first holder of the title of emperor of China to seriously adopt and proclaim western reforms.

Kuang Hsu succeeded to the throne in 1875. In 1887 the dowager empress intimated that she considered him fit to rule, and two years later she married him to her niece. Nine years then passed without children or the world hearing anything of importance concerning him or his policy as a ruler. Then, in 1898, after the seizure of Kiao Chou by Germany, he threatened to abdicate if not given full power. The dowager empress made a pretense of turning over control of the government to him, and for four months he was as near as he ever has been to being the actual ruler of his empire.

During this period a number of reform

edicts were issued from the palace and it was evident that plans were under way for the westernizing of both the government and the court. The emperor was then fully under the influence of the reformer, Kang Yu-Wei, who was the inspiration of those remarkable reform edicts. They included a decree for a national loan, a house and opium tax, army reform and foreign education, the abolition of the "literary essay" as a test of fellowship and office; a bureau of agriculture, copyright and patent laws and schools and colleges of western learning. Kuang Hsu, however, went too far in these matters, and the dowager empress, in September of 1898, decided to put an end to his activity. She suddenly confronted the emperor, denounced him, took from him the seal of state and put him under guard.

Reformers Put to Death.

The emperor's reform friends were pursued with fury by the dowager empress, who executed six of them in Pekin on September 28. On January 29, 1899, the emperor was forced to sign the decree announcing his own abdication and he was kept a prisoner by the dowager empress for two years. It was believed that he had been killed. The foreign powers made representations on the subject of his health, which resulted in his being examined by a French physician attached to the French legation. It was a remarkable proceeding reluctantly permitted by the dowager empress.

Nothing was then heard of the emperor until the Boxer uprising and the siege of the foreign legations at Pekin. He is credited with having interfered with the dowager empress to try and prevent the carrying out of the decision, "to fight all foreign nations," on the ground that "the making of war against all countries would make peace an impossibility in the future."

On the day after the relief of the legations, April 16, the emperor fled with the rest of the court to Sian Fu. He returned to Pekin with the court January 7, 1902.

He mingled with the native and foreign guests of the throne under constraint, and only appeared at all in the presence of company in obedience to orders of the dowager empress. His court duties were distinctly perfunctory and routine.

In the throne room, he sat on a stool or chair beside the throne chair of the dowager empress, and papers were passed to him after having been inspected by the dowager empress. It is related that on one occasion the presence of the emperor bored the dowager empress, and she, in a temper, called to an attendant: "Take that away," referring to the emperor. His majesty overheard this characterization, and when he reached his rooms, he began smashing the bric-a-brac in his rage.

Were Seven Prisoners.

Statesboro, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Superintendent of Roads T. R. Cox took away the prisoners convicted in the superior court yesterday afternoon. In all there were seven—four white men and three colored.

LAWYER SHOT IN COURTROOM BY EX-CONVICT

Graft Prosecutor Victim of Man Who Served as Juror in Ruef Trial.

"HENEY HAD RUINED ME," SAYS MAN WHO SHOT HIM

Pistol Was Pressed Against Head of Lawyer and Fired Before Any One in Room Knew What Was Intended by Former Juror.

San Francisco, Cal., November 13.—The San Francisco bribery graft cases had a dramatic climax late today when Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, who has been in charge of the prosecution during the tortuous course of two years, was shot and seriously wounded in the crowded court room by Morris Haas, an ex-convict.

The shooting occurred during a brief recess in the third trial of Abraham Ruef on a charge of bribery, now in its eleventh week.

Mr. Heney is now resting easily in the Lane hospital, and the physicians say his wound is not fatal. Haas is in the city prison.

The would-be assassin is a saloonkeeper, who was drawn upon the jury panel in the second trial of Ruef, and who, after having been temporarily passed by both sides, was exposed in a dramatic manner by Mr. Heney as an ex-convict and discharged from the jury. Haas declared after the shooting that Heney had ruintd his life by the exposure, and that he had determined to kill him for that reason.

When Shot Was Fired.

M. Heney had finished the cross-examination at noon of James Gallagher, the prosecution's most important witness in all the bribery graft cases and the self-confessed "go between" of Ruef and the former board of supervisors.

Henry Ach, chief counsel for Ruef, had subjected Gallagher to a severe cross-examination for two hours in the afternoon when Judge Lawlor declared a brief recess at 4:05. The jury filed out, and Mr. Heney and Ach and Dozier, at the request of the judge, went into his chamber to confer with him on some proposed instructions to the jury. At the close of the conference Ach, Dozier and Judge Lawlor went out of the court room in front of the building, which is located on Fulton street, near VanNess avenue.

Mr. Heney, instead of going outside to enjoy a breath of air, stepped for a moment into an ante-room, and then came back to his counsel table. While many of the people who had crowded the court room until there was no standing room left, had also gone out on the sidewalk, there was still a large crowd in the room.

Mr. Heney was leaning over on the table conversing in low tones with A. L. McCabe, chief clerk in the district attorney's office. Directly in front of him was James L. Gallagher, the witness. A representative of the Associated Press had just walked to Mr. Heney's table, and was standing at his left elbow, waiting to speak to him, when a small man, neatly attired, approached from behind with quick steps, but still with deliberation. Suddenly his right hand shot out, and before the newspaper man, McCabe or John Foley, Heney's special bodyguard, sitting about 8 feet away, could make a move, there was a flash and a loud report rang through the court room.

For a moment everybody seemed stunned. The would-be assassin, whose revolver was within a foot and a half of Heney's head when he pulled the trigger, stepped back, his arms by his side, one hand still clutching the smoking pistol as if he hesitated what to do. For a fraction of a second silence followed the report, while the smoke of the shot lazily floated away. Then followed a dramatic scene.

"My God, He Shot Heney."

Someone shouted "My God! He has shot Heney."

A chorus of moans escaped the crowd. Half the people, every one fearing further shooting, made a frantic rush for the doors. Before Haas could raise his pistol again Foley and E. J. Wisketchill, a special policeman, were upon him, threw him to the floor and wrested the weapon from his grasp. He struggled hard, but was dragged to the jury box, thrown on his back and held there, just as the jury, attracted by the shot, came bursting through their private entrance.

Mr. Heney arose from his chair, put his hands to his head, the blood streaming through his fingers, and reddening the table in front of him, leaned over a moment and was caught as he began to fall. He was laid on the floor, Charles Oliver and John Foley, two special detectives connected with the district attorney's office, holding his head out of the pool of blood which flowed from a hole which appeared to be just below his right temple. He was conscious, and when the Associated Press representative stepped down by his side and spoke to him, his first words were: "Send for my wife."

Dr. H. A. Fincks, who was in the court room at the time, rushed to Mr. Heney's side, made an hasty examination and pronounced him fatally wounded.

Mr. Heney was perfectly composed, and the peculiar smile for which he is noted was still hovering around his lips. He also believed that he was fatally hurt. Turning his eyes to John O'Gara, his assistant in the trial, he said: "I want to make a dying statement. I believe I am going to die.

"I was sitting at my tale when I felt what I thought was a blow. I do not know who shot me. I was doing nothing to anyone."

Ruef and his two attorneys, who were out on the sidewalk, were startled by the report, and started for the court room, but were forced down the steps by the crowd, rushing frantically out, and the police refused to admit them.

Ruef Sent for Doctor.

"What has happened?" shouted Ruef to the Associated Press representative as the latter ran out to the nearest telephone.

"Heney has been shot," was the reply.

"My God! Who did that?" he asked.

Ruef's automobile stood in front of the building, and he immediately ordered his chauffeur to get the nearest physician. The car returned a few minutes later with Dr. A. S. Tuchter, of No. 703 VanNess avenue.

Mr. Heney, in the meantime, lay on his side in the court room with a piece of rug under his head. Finally the ambulance arrived and conveyed the wounded man to the Central Emergency hospital, four blocks away, whence he was removed about 7 o'clock to the Lane hospital.

The report of the attempted assassination spread quickly throughout the city, and caused intense excitement and indignation. An immense crowd gathered around the court room. A crowd followed the ambulance from the hall to the Central Emergency hospital, and downtown, and gathered around the bulletin boards.

Within a few minutes after the shooting Chief of Police W. J. Biggy, W. J. Burns, former United States secret service agent, who is at the head of special detectives employed by the prosecution in the bribery-graft cases; Rudolph Spreckels, the prominent capitalist, who financed the prosecutions; Captains of Police Gleeson, Duke and Wright, and a large force of police were on the scene. There was no hostile demonstration in the big crowd in front of the building, but some threatening murmurs soon began to be heard.

Ruef was surrounded by a large number of people and quietly slipped away, going with Dr. Tuchter to the latter's office for a little while. This led to the report that the former political boss had disappeared. Special Agent Burns censured some of his men for allowing him to get away, and the chief of police immediately sent men to hunt for him. Ruef, however, appeared in front of the building a little later, and sent in word that the officer at the door would not let him in. He was immediately brought into the court room.

In the meantime several acts of the tragedy were being played in different parts of the court room. While Mr. Heney was lying on the floor, the newspaper men approached the would-be assassin, who, up to that time, had not been identified, and asked his name. At first he refused to give it, then he said:

"I am Morris Haas. Heney ruined me. I don't care what becomes of me now."

Ruef's attorneys denounced the shooting as a dastardly outrage.

Ruef was taken into custody after the shooting to assure his personal safety.

Cause of the Shooting.

In the second Ruef trial, Haas had been passed as a juror, when one day in October, Heney dramatically produced a photograph of him taken at San Quentin penitentiary, taken in convicts' garb and cropped head and with his number across his breast. Haas collapsed in court, admitted he had been a convict, and was immediately discharged from the jury.

When he was arrested, Haas said he shot Heney because he had ruined him. He is a married man, and has four children. In a statement made to Police Captain Duke he said:

"Heney denounced me in public, which ruined my life and branded me as an ex-convict. It was an outrage. I am the wronged man. I do not care what becomes of me now. I have sacrificed myself, not for my own honor, but for those who are situated like myself. By God, I would not have brought my four children into the world to bear such a brand if I had known that the fact that I was an ex-convict would become known. Heney ruined me. That is why I shot him."

At 6 o'clock tonight Mr. Heney was conscious. He said:

"I will live to prosecute him."

THEATERS

At the Grand.

"The Red Mill," a musical comedy in two acts, by Charles Dillingham, was presented at the Grand last night before one of the largest audiences of the season. The production was just fine—strong in wit, lively with good songs, splendid as to scenic effects and rendered by a good company.

The scene of the play is laid in Holland. Joseph Whitehead and Neil McNeil, two strong actors, play the leading roles as Con Kidder and Kid Conner. They are two Americans of New York, who are doing Europe, but unfortunately their money gives out in the little Dutch town. Here they employ the grit and enterprise famous to the yankee, and in the end succeed in making a large sum of money, one of them winning the hand of Tina, the pretty daughter of a tavern keeper.

In the little Dutch town is the mysterious Red Mill, about which cluster many old legends. In the love story Jan Van Borken, burgomaster of the town, attempts to force his daughter, Gretchen, to marry the governor of Zea. Gretchen is in love with Captain Doris Van Damn, who contrives a plot to steal her away by night.

The father hears of this, and tries to put an end to the scheme by placing Gretchen in the Red Mill and the captain in jail. The Americans aid him in making his escape, and Von Damn then slips to the side of the mill and swings on top by grasping one of the arms of the mill. He makes his descent in the same way to the ground with Gretchen, and both get away.

When the governor arrives he is in no way cast down on account of the escape of his fiancee, but falls in love with Gretchen's aunt. The burgomaster offers a large reward for the return of his daughter, and here the Americans are on the scene in the role of Sherlock Holmes and his friend Dr. Watson, which was highly amusing.

Of the many musical numbers, "Go, While the Goin's Good," "Every Day is Ladies' Day With Me" and "In Old New York" were favorites with the audience, while "Because You're You," sung by Miss Sadie Kirby and Mauricet LaVigne, and given with the seven little Dutch girls, lost none of its original sweetness.

The wind mill scene was rendered with good effect, and the scenery and costuming were in good keeping with the show. The Red Mill will be seen tonight and matinee.

ROBERT QUIN.

"The Girl Question."

There is a snap, a dash, a life to the chorus girls and the musical numbers of "The Girl Question," which make it the fastest play ever seen in even that home of enormous successes—the LaSalle theater, Chicago. It is a play of the same type as "The Time, The Place and The Girl," written by the same authors, produced under the same management and by the same stage director, and its receipts for the first 209 performances in Chicago exceeded by some dollars those of "The Time, The Place and The Girl," which up to the advent of "The Girl Question" set a new record for theatrical productions and long runs in Chicago.

"Wizard of Oz."

"The Wizard of Oz" comes to the Lyric on Monday for an engagement of six nights and matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. This engagement is to be one of the events of the season, for aside from the magnetism of Julian Mitchell's best work as a producer of Frank Baum's fairy tales, is to be offered for the first time here at popular prices. An exact reproduction of the original costuming, scenery, mechanical and electrical effects, the work of the masters who created the first production, will be exhibited with the Lyric show.

"The Bon-Tons."

Weber & Rush, who have become identified with the local theatrical situation, will make their initial bow locally as producers in the presentation of "The Bon-Tons" at the Bijou next week. "The Bon-Tons" will appear at matinees Monday, Wednesday and Saturday and at the regular evening performances during the engagement. Rawson & Clair, one of the best known headline feature acts in advance vaudeville, will offer "Just Kids," the character sketch that created such a furore at Hammerstein's during the summer. La Minna, the sensational mirror dancer, supported by eight English dancing girls, will present an illusion that promises to be a tremendous success.

"The Traitor."

The dictionary definition of a traitor gives but a faint idea of the real meaning of the word. To realize fully the turpitude of one who betrays his trust and the detestation in which such a man is held it is necessary to recall the pages of the past. In this country one instinctively thinks of the name of Benedict Arnold. In France there were many such, as Generals Bernadotte and Marmont. In ancient Rome Cataline was execrated as a traitor, and no one can ever forget the name of Judas. The traitor who gives the title to the latest play of reconstruction days by Channing Polock and Thomas Dixon, Jr., is perhaps, strictly speaking, a composite character, but every southerner knows that unfortunately there were those who betrayed their comrades of the Ku Klux Klan after the dissolution of that oathbound organization. The play fairly seethes with startling situation that have almost made it surpass the spectacular success of "The Clansman." "The Traitor" will be the attraction at the Grand, beginning next Monday, November 16, for four nights and matinee Tuesday and Thursday.

"THERE'S A REASON"

APPEAL IS MADE TO HOLD COTTON

Issued by Farmers' Union and Citizens' Committee.

New Orleans, November 13.—With a stirring appeal to every interest in the south, agricultural, financial and commercial, to hold cotton and cooperate for higher prices, the joint conference committee of the National Farmers' Union and citizens' committee of New Orleans adjourned tonight after a long session. The appeal is addressed to the people of the cotton belt, and is as follows:

Committees Appeal.

"We, the joint committee of the National Farmers' Union and of the financial and commercial interests of New Orleans, realizing that confidence in cotton market conditions has been impaired, and the apprehension thereby engendered has caused more rapid marketing of cotton than has ever been known, and believing that the holding of cotton at the present time will permit the healthy assimilation of temporary superabundance and restore normal conditions under which remunerative price may be obtained, hereby earnestly appeal to every farmer, merchant and banker and other holders and owners of cotton, to hold back, so far as they can, their present holdings and not sell until absolutely compelled to do so, until the price of cotton shall have reached a substantially increased figure.

"We especially request all merchants and bankers of the cotton belt to extend the obligation of the cotton grower, when called upon to do so, for a reasonable period, and to do all other things in their power to aid and encourage such growers and holders of cotton, believing, as we do that all the business conditions of the world, and especially of the cotton world, steadily point toward better prices than now obtain.

"We believe that such concerted and determined action will logically and in all probability increase the present inadequate price paid for cotton."

The Warehouse Plan.

Not only were the foregoing immediate relief measures urged, but joint committees were named to investigate the public warehouse plan.

This plan calls for a quasi-public commission, appointed by the state of Louisiana to control the operation of the warehouse, which will be built on the river front at New Orleans, so that cotton may be delivered by rail or water into storage, and, by mechanical devices, shot into the ships' holds alongside the wharves. Such a warehouse is designed to store from 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 bales of cotton at a net saving of $2 per bale on cost of handling, storage and insurance alone, irrespective of the market price.

The warehouse being quasi-public, would have no dividends to pay and all earnings would go into the cost of operation, maintenance, improvements and retirement of bonds.

SHORT ITEMS OF INTEREST.

R. M. DAVIS, ONE OF THE TICKET sellers at the union depot, is critically ill at the Grady hospital with typhoid fever, with which he was taken ill last Friday. It was announced by the physicians at an early hour this morning that there was barely any hope for his recovery, though he might live through the day. His friends have notified his family, who live in south Georgia.

HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS HAVE been instituted to secure the release of J. E. Cotton, 21 years of age, who was arrested on a warrant and detained at the station house. Attorney Thomas Goodwin represents Cotton. It is alleged that Cotton is wanted at Greensboro, N. C., for larceny, and it is charged by his attorney that he is being illegally held. The hearing will come up before Judge Reed this morning.

A LETTER RECEIVED BY CHIEF OF Police Henry Jennings has disclosed the identity of Hugh Oglesby, 14-year-old son of J. W. Oglesby, of Quitman, Ga., who is said to have run away from home ten days ago and gone to parts unknown. The letter is from C. H. Walker, a merchant of Baldwyn, Miss., and states that the boy is at that place. Chief Jennings instructed that the father be notified.

ELECTION FOR PRESIDENT HELD IN CUBA TODAY

Havana, November 13.—On the eve of Cuba's national election, the indications for a victory for the liberal ticket, headed by Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez and Alfredo Zayas, candidates respectively for the presidency and vice presidency of the republic, apparently are constantly growing in strength. Within the past twenty-four hours there seemingly has been marked depression in the confidence of the followers of Gen. Mario Menocal and Dr. Rafael Montoro, the candidates of the conservatives, with an apparent corresponding feeling of assurance of victory by the liberals.

BEN KAHN WILL RUN NEW VAUDEVILLE BELT

As a result of arrangements which have just been perfected by Ben Kahn, former manager of the Orpheum theater, and Jake Wells, one of the most prominent theatrical men in this section of the country, the south is to have a new vaudeville circuit. It is announced that Atlanta will be the headquarters.

The new circuit will include besides Atlanta, Chattanooga, Nashville and Evansville, Ind. Engagements have already been signed for the houses in these places to open November 23, and later Knoxville, Tenn., Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, Ala., will be included in the new belt. The Western Vaudeville Association, with headquarters in Chicago, will furnish the attractions, and the new circuit will thus have entree into the United Booking office. The arrangements of the new circuit were completed in just four days by Mr. Kahn and Mr. Wells, who visited each of the three places and closed the deal. These new houses, together with the others named which will be secured in the very near future, will furnish Atlanta with more high-class vaudeville.

GRAND JURY ACTS IN CARMACK CASE

True Bills Returned Against Col. Cooper, His Son and Ex-Sheriff.

Nashville, Tenn., November 13.—At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon the grand jury of Davidson county returned a true bill, in which Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, his son, Robin J. Cooper, and ex-Sheriff John D. Sharp are jointly charged with the murder of ex-Senator E. W. Carmack, and in which Sharp is also indicted on the charge of being an accessory before the fact.

The names of six witnesses appear on the back of the indictment as follows: Mrs. Coby D. Carmack, Mrs. Charles Eastman, Carey Folk, Dr. James Wittenberg, Mrs. Martha Morgan and Miss Mary Skeffington. The Mrs. Carmack in the list is the widow of the former senator. Mrs. Eastman it was to whom Mr. Carmack spoke just before the shooting began. Carey Folk is deputy insurance commissioner, and passed along the street near the time of the killing. Mrs. Morgan lives diagonally across from the scene of the killing. Dr. Wittenberg runs an optical establishment in the west end of the arcade, through which the Coopers, accompanied by Sharp, are alleged to have passed shortly before the tragedy occurred. Miss Mary Skeffington is state librarian.

There are two counts in the indictment, the first charging the three men jointly with the murder, and the second one charging John D. Sharp with being an accessory before the fact.

The name of S. C. Carmack, a brother of the slain man, appears on the indictment as prosecutor.

Physicians attending young Cooper, who was wounded in the shoulder by a ball from Carmack's revolver, said tonight that their patient was doing as well as could be expected. The powder burns on young Cooper's face are much better, and the wound in his shoulder is healing rapidly. Cooper will, in all probability, be able to be moved in several days to the county jail.

Carmack a Martyr.

The Memphis conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in session at Covington, Tenn., today adopted resolutions declaring that Carmack died a martyr to his convictions of duty and to the cause of temperance and of righteousness.

600 RELATIVES WERE AT THE MAY FUNERAL.

Receipt That Cures Weak Men—Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and lost vigor-failure ever put together. I have in my possession a prescription for them and a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, STOP-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so, cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Mr. A. E. Robinson, 3868 Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

ELLIOTT WAS FOUND GUILTY

Case Has Been on Trial for Several Days at LaGrange.

LaGrange, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—The case of the State v. J. M. Elliott, which has been in progress of trial here in Troup superior court since Wednesday, went to the jury about 12 o'clock. The jury, after being out a short time, returned a verdict of guilty.

The crime for which J. M. Elliott was charged was the shooting of George Rivers, on September 1. There was considerable interest and excitement about it at the time.

The defendant was represented in the trial by W. T. McNeil, of Macon, and M. U. Mooty, of this place. The state's interests were looked after by Solicitor General J. R. Terrell and Hatton Lovejoy.

ROBBED THE MAILS.

Columbus Postoffice Employee Is Placed Under Arrest.

Columbus, Ga., November 13.—Roy F. Bagley, chief mailing clerk of the Columbus postoffice, was arrested tonight, charged with robbing the mails. Money had been frequently extracted from letters passing through the Columbus office, and Bagley was suspected. Marked bills were mailed in decoy letters by a postoffice inspector, and two special officers shadowed Bagley during the day. When arrested Bagley desisted, and it is claimed that he made an attempt to destroy the money which he had on his person. The officers identified bills which were taken from Bagley as the marked money sent in the decoy letters.

DIVORCE MILL SHUT DOWN.

Year's Residence Now Necessary in South Dakota.

GOV. DAVIDSON REFUSES TO HONOR REQUISITION

Will Not Allow Removal of F. E. Teachout to This State.

Madison, Wis., November 13.—(Special.)—Governor Davidson tonight refused to honor a requisition by Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia, for the removal of F. E. Teachout, under arrest in Milwaukee, to Atlanta, Ga., to answer to a grand jury indictment for "larceny under a trust."

The governor decided that the showing made by the Georgia officials was insufficient to convince him that there was reasonable cause to believe that Teachout is guilty of the offense charged. Teachout will be held by the Wisconsin authorities for some days to enable the Georgia officials to make a more convincing case, if possible. Teachout is charged with having embezzled from the Leebold Peanut Company, of Atlanta, Ga. He denies the charge.

LITTLE NEGRO WITH GUN NEARLY CAUSED A PANIC

When one Eugene Dorsey, a small negro boy, undertook to do some private drilling with a shotgun at 313 Peters street Thursday afternoon he came near throwing an entire neighborhood into a panic. The wild manner in which he threw the gun around, pointing it in various directions, caused consternation and dismay to fill many frightened breasts. People fled from the scene, and order and quiet were not restored until a police officer had Dorsey and his gun under arrest.

Somebody had given the little negro the gun to hold, and he undertook to amuse himself by giving a whirlwind drill that would have done credit to a cyclonic Zouave. Round and round he went until there was hardly anything discernible except what appeared to be a rapid-firing automatic stack of arms with a whole squad of negroes behind it. The gun was pointed up and down, backwards and forwards, to the right and to the left, until everybody that came in sight was kept covered.

When the policeman came upon the scene he arrested the boy and arraigned him before Recorder Broyles yesterday morning.

When asked what he meant by making such wild gyrations on the streets with a shotgun the boy replied:

"I was jes drillin', Jedge Briles, an' nebber meaned no harm ter nobody."

It was explained to the recorder that the little negro was a hard-working boy, and the case was dismissed with a lecture.

NOW SURGEON GEN. TORNEY.

New Head of Army Medical Corps Now in 'Frisco.

Washington, November 13.—The appointment of George . Torney as surgeon general of the army to succeed Surgeon General R. M. O'Reilly, was announced by the secretary of war today. Colonel Torney is now in charge of the general hospital at San Francisco. The vacancy in the surgeon generalship will occur on January 14.

The secretary of war stated that Colonel Torney's appointment was based on his splendid record as an administrative officer and as a surgeon.

Killed in Pennsylvania Depot.

New York, November 13.—In view of hundreds of persons in the Pennsylvania depot in Jersey City today, Walter Ammon was shot three times in the head and body and died on the way to the hospital. The man who did the shooting was quickly caught. He gave the name of Andrew McGrath, but refused to make any statement. Mr. Ammon was a member of the dairy firm of Ammon & Herson. McGrath said that he had been employed as a salesman by Ammon & Herson, and had been discharged.

RECRUIT LEFT $100,000; STICKS TO MARINE CORPS

News That Father Had Died Was Received an Hour After He Had Enlisted.

Chicago, November 13.—An hour after James L. Dixon was sworn in as a recruit in the United States marine corps yesterday, he was apprised that his father had died and left him $100,000. Dixon said he would "stick for the big show," and prepared to go to the marine barracks in Washington, D. C., just as if he had never heard of $100,000. Ancil C. Dixon, the father, was a merchant tailor at San Francisco, where he died.

REV. E. C. CRONK COMES TO ATLANTA ON VISIT

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Cronk are expected to arrive in Atlanta on Saturday morning to spend a week in the city. Mr. Cronk was pastor for five years of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, and it was during his incumbency that the congregation was organized and the church built. In the early part of the year Mr. Cronk accepted an urgent call to become publication secretary of the southern Lutheran church, and the same success that characterized his work here is being achieved by him in his new field of work.

Mrs. Cronk is also well known here as an untiring Sunday school and missionary worker, and both she and Mr. Cronk will receive a hearty welcome among old friends. While in Atlanta Mr. and Mrs. Cronk will be the guests of Rev. W. C. Shaeffer, Jr., at the Lutheran parsonage, 166 Trinity avenue. Mr. Cronk will preach morning and evening on Sunday at the English Lutheran church.

REMAINING PRISONERS TAKEN FROM CAMP NEMO

There Is Nothing but Joy Over the Breaking of Camp at Camp Nemo.

Union City, Tenn., November 13.—The remaining prisoners were removed from Camp Nemo today. At Camp Nemo there is nothing but joy over the breaking of camp tomorrow. Everything is being prepared for an early move on Union City. The start will be made at 5 o'clock, and the march of 20 miles will be made in one day on foot.

The guard will number one hundred men, and to Camp Nemo, it is said, all the prisoners will be brought. Here the impression in military quarters is that a part will be brought tomorrow and the remainder Monday. The former is probably correct. After the prisoners and their guard leave camp but forty men will remain. The hundred composing the guard will go to the home stations. Governor Patterson will be asked to keep all the men to be discharged under arms at their home stations until thirty-one days have elapsed since they were called out. This will be for the purpose of allowing the soldiers army pay.

THIRD DISTRICT DOCTORS.

They Will Meet at Montezuma on November 18.

Vienna, Ga., November 13.—(Special.) On Wednesday, November 18, the city of Montezuma will act as host to the medical profession of the third congressional district in the fourth semi-annual meeting of the Third Congressional Medical Association.

This association, organized at Americus less than two years ago, has already doubled its membership, and the efforts of the secretary, Dr. R. H. Stovall, of Vienna, and of the president, Dr. T. J. McArthur, of Cordele, has been given for several weeks toward making this the most interesting program since this association was organized.

Several papers of scientific interest and value will be read by physicians throughout the district, and the morning and afternoon sessions will be devoted to the reading and discussion of these papers.

The committee on local arrangements, composed of Drs. C. H. Richardson, chairman, F. M. Mullino and S. B. Liggin, are making thorough preparations for the entertainment of the visiting members of the profession, and will give an oyster roast and supper in their honor in the evening.

The officers of the association are: President, Dr. T. G. McArthur, Cordele; vice president, Dr. S. M. Brown, Fort Valley; secretary-treasurer, Dr. R. H. Stovall, Vienna.

MISSION LEAGUE BEGINS SESSION

Opening Session of Georgia Students' Missionary League at Macon.

Brown House, Macon, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—The opening session of the Georgia Students' Missionary League was held this evening in the chapel building of Wesleyan college. A large number of college students, representing the leading colleges and schools of the state, were present to enter into the work. Professor C. R. Forster, of Wesleyan, president of the body, was in the chair, and conducted the first session. Rev. T. D. Ellis, of the Mulberry Street Methodist church, and President S. Y. Jameson, of Mercer university, were the speakers of the evening.

After organization, the enrollment of delegates and the appointment of various important committees, President Forster made his annual report, a stirring and very interesting statement of facts dealing with the growth and usefulness of the new league. Secretary and Treasurer Ully O. Thompson, of Mercer, made his annual report at the evening meeting.

A feature of special interest was the address of Dr. E. C. Dargan, who dealt with the subject, "The Appeal of Missions to the Southern College Student."

All the incoming delegates have been met at their trains and carried to homes in the city, where they will remain during the sessions of the league. There will be work to last through Sunday.

No College Work Thursday.

Macon, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—President Jameson, of Mercer, announced in chapel exercises this morning to the large gathering of students that there will be no college work next Thursday on account of the Mercer-Tech football game. The announcement was received with a great deal of enthusiasm by those students who are deeply interested in winning from Tech. Early arrangements will be made for Thursday's celebration, and the entire student body will go after Tech. The game will be played at Central City park. Blake's men are steadily working to put themselves in trim for the battle.

Warde on "Shakespeare."

Macon, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Much interest is manifested today in the announcement that Frederick Warde is to appear at the Grand in a lecture on Shakespeare's plays on November 17 under the auspices of the Mercer athletic association. He will be heard by large numbers of people.

FITZGERALD ENTERTAINS CHRISTIAN CONVENTION

South Georgia Town Thrown Open to Visiting Delegates During Three Days' Stay.

Fitzgerald, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Beginning Monday evening, the 9th day of November, and continuing three days, the Georgia Christian Missionary Society has been gathered together in convention, with Rev. Howard T. Cree, pastor of the First Church of Augusta and vice president of the society, presiding in the absence of Pres. H. K. Pendleton, of Atlanta. The Christian Church has reviewed the work of the past year and made plans for the work of the coming year. The town has made welcome the hundred delegates attending, homes being opened for their entertainment regardless of denominational affiliations.

The sessions were all filled with fine addresses and important reports. The Christian Publishing Company, of St. Louis, had a display of literature, a book of poems entitled "Fragments," by Rev. E. E. Hollingworth, the pastor of the Fitzgerald church, being among the list displayed. The convention closed Thursday evening to meet at Dublin next year.

Thursday was spent in seeing the city, the visitors being entertained by a fire drill by the fire department; a greeting by the public school children and their teachers, to the number of seven hundred; automobile rides and other pleasant festivities, all tending to make the visitors remember the little wire grass city.

Among the prominent visitors were: Marion Stevenson, St. Louis; J. H. Mohorter, St. Louis, secretary National Benevolent Society; Ashley S. Johnson, Tennessee, president of School of Evangelists; H. A. Denton, Cincinnati; Mrs. H. K. Pendleton, Atlanta, and Mrs. J. C. Gentry, Atlanta.

Saw Mill Men to Meet.

Tifton, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—The November meeting of the Georgia-Florida Sawmill Association will be held in the parlors of the Myon hotel next Tuesday, November 17, beginning at 10 o'clock. This is the second meeting of the association held in Tifton this year, and there is a better feeling among manufacturers of yellow pine lumber.

Family Were at Point of Death.

Rome, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—W. A. Walker, of Lindale, his wife and four children have been at the point of death since Wednesday night, caused, it is said, by eating poisoned souse. They are all now practically out of danger, but at first it was thought all of them would die. It is not known how the meat became poisoned.

Decrease in French Exports.

Paris, November 13.—French exports for the first ten months of 1903 decreased, as compared to the same period of 1907, by $60,277,400. This loss was chiefly in the American trade.

HUMAN SKELETON APPEARS IN THE POLICE COURT

There is scarcely ever a case in the police court but what some "skeleton" in the closet is not dragged out into public view, but it remained for yesterday's morning session to bring to view a sure enough human skeleton.

The bones were those of a full-grown negro woman, all articulated and every one in its place. The lower jaw was arranged so it could move up and down in the sockets. There was a full set of teeth and the ghastly object presented a most gruesome spectacle as a policeman held it up and the long bones of the arms and legs dangled over Recorder Broyles' desk.

The skeleton had been missed from a closet of the "bone room" of the Southern Medical college, and it had been found in the private room of C. E. Ware, a medical student. Ware told the officers that he had bought the skeleton from Henry Gary, a negro janitor at the medical college. Cases were entered against both Ware and the negro, and they were arraigned in the police court yesterday morning with the skeleton, which was taken from a crocus sack and held up before the gaze of the awe-struck audience. Where the negro spectators sat there was a stir and many of them fled, frightened, from the court room.

The skeleton had to be exhibited so that it could be identified by the owner.

Bought Skeleton for $10.

Ware stated to the recorder that he entered the medical college this fall and wanted a skeleton with which to study anatomy. He said that Henry Gary, the negro janitor, offered to sell one for $10, and he made the purchase, going to the college early in the evening where everybody could see him. He thought the negro had a right to sell bones from the "bone room," as other students had bought them in this way.

The janitor admitted getting $10 for the skeleton. He stated that Ware asked him for it and he took it out of the closet and sold it to him.

Recorder Broyles asked what the skeleton was worth and he was informed that skeletons varied in price from $25 to $50, according to the way the bones were bleached and joined together.

"I thought they were worth more than that," remarked the recorder.

The recorder ordered the skeleton replaced in the sack.

"I will dismiss both the cases," he said, "because I don't see that the student was to blame, and the negro doesn't appear to have much sense. Besides, I understand that the faculty of the college will further investigate this skeleton in the closet."

ECHO RIVER ALMOST DRY.

As a Result New Parts of Mammoth Cave Have Been Explored.

Nashville, Tenn., November 13.—Echo river, in famous Mammoth Cave, in Edmundson county, Kentucky, is almost dry as a result of the drought. Many of the avenues where water stood ten or fifteen feet deep are now mere footpaths. As a result of the opportunity afforded many parts of the cave that have never been reached have been explored. The river has never been known to be so low.

FOUR CHILDREN CREMATED.

Parents and Three Children Escaped, but Father Will Die.

Alliance, Ohio, November 13.—The country home of John Wampfler, a milk dealer, was destroyed by fire today. Four children, Lucille, aged 9; LeRoy, 7; Katherine, 5, and Charles, 3, perished in the flames. The parents and three children escaped. The father was severely burned, but will recover.

Probably nothing in the world arouses more curiosity than the presence of a stranger in a country village.

TECH READY FOR SEWANEE

Yellow Jackets Encouraged by the Return of Parrish.

Tom Evans Will Be Seen at Center for the Tigers—Men Look in Fine Shape and Confident of Beating Tech.

There is better news in the Yellow Jackets' hive than there has been in some time when it was learned yesterday that Half Back Parrish would be able to start the game against Sewanee at his regular position and that Barnwell would be played at end, the position that has become the hoodoo to the team, Hightower and Ayres, the former occupants of the position, now being out of the game with broken bones.

All during the week the Yellow Jackets have been working faithfully for the game with no let-up, and on Thursday the last scrimmage work was engaged in, the work yesterday being principally signal drill and tackling and every man but Parrish is in the best of shape. He is laboring some with his sore knee and it is doubtful if he will play the entire game, though he may.

There is not an over-supply of confidence in the Tech camp that they are going to win the game, but there is plenty of confidence among the men and the student body that they will give the Sewanee team a hard fight and hope to hold the score down very low.

The Tigers arrived in the city last night and every man is said to be in great shape for the battle. They look as husky as any team that has ever represented the Tiger lair in the mountains of Tennessee, and though not over-confident, the men feel that they are capable of pulling out the winning.

It is a team 50 per cent stronger than when they played Auburn that will trot out on the field against the Yellow Jackets today. They are just reaching the zenith of their strength and hope to be in great shape for the Vanderbilt game, and what's more, wipe out old scores when they meet the Commodores.

Sewanee has a host of followers in the city who will be sure to be on hand when the whistle blows for the game to start, cheering their team on to victory.

Sewanee has always played a fast, fierce game of football, but along with it has always played a clean game and thereby have added to their already large host of friends.

The biggest piece of news that has reached here from the Tiger camp is that Tom Evans, the husky center of last year, has again donned the moleskins and will be seen in the game today. This makes the team show added strength and Shepherd has been shifted to the half back place, vacated by Meyers, and is said to fit in there just like he belonged there all the time.

The officials have already been decided on for the game. "Old Reliable," "Impartial" George Butler will be on hand as referee, and that alone assures the spectators that the game will be pulled off in the proper style, but with Professor Riggs, of Clemson, as umpire, and McElroy, of Cornell, as field judge, the other two places of importance will be well cared for. It is doubtful if there are three more competent and efficient officials in the south than these three men, so the game should go with dash and fire and with the lack of squabbling.

The line-up will probably be as follows:

TECH.	Position.	SEWANEE.
Emerson	L. E.	Williams
Green	L. T.	Faulkinberry
McPhaul	L. G.	Harris
Spalding	C.	T. Evans
Patterson	R. G.	Cheape
Means	R. T.	W. Evans
Barnwell	R. E.	Eisele
Robert	Q. B.	Browne
Parrish	L. H. B.	Lanier
Davis	R. H. B.	Shepherd
Ridley	F. B.	Markley

COLUMBIA STUDENTS PETITION PRESIDENT

Anxious to Play Football With Other Colleges—"Just One Game," They Cry.

New York, November 13.—Students of Columbia university who have never become fully reconciled to the abolishment of football at that institution, have been unable to stand the strain of the present season any longer. They have broken forth with an appeal to President Butler for "just one game" this fall. To strengthen their appeal, the students point out that a deficit was incurred by the 'varsity crew last year and that with the receipts from a football game this could be wiped out. Sixty undergraduates who have played in the interclass games have affixed their signatures to the following petition:

"We, the undersigned, all having played in interclass football games held this fall, do hereby petition to be allowed to play one football game with a small college, which may be decided on later.

"We petition this, first, because we, of our accord, wish to play, and, second, because we believe that the receipts from the proposed game, when played, will materially assist the rowing club to pay off their present indebtedness."

The 'varsity eleven which will play in the first intercollegiate football game at Morningside Heights in three years, if the game is played, has been selected from the sixty men signing the petition, as well as a scrub team.

HANDBALL SINGLES AT A. A. C. TONIGHT

Finals and Semi-Finals Will Be Completed—Best Three Out of Five the Contest.

Tonight, beginning at 7:45 o'clock sharp, the semi-finals and finals in the annual handball tournament in singles will be played off at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

In the recent tournament the following players reached semi-finals: W. E. Keeler, Carlton Y. Smith, P. G. Lombard and Nat Thornton. In the semi-finals, Keeler will play Carlton Smith and Lombard will play Thornton. The winner of the Keeler-Smith match will meet the winner of the Lombard-Thornton match in the finals.

The contests will be the best three out of five.

On account of the large number of players who have participated in the tournament and the excellent showing made so far, there is a great deal of interest in the result of the semi-finals and finals. Another large crowd of enthusiasts is expected to be present.

The event will be in charge of the handball committee, W. A. Fuller, chairman; Dr. Claud Smith and Joseph Gregg, Jr.

VANDERBILT MEETS OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

Vanderbilt is sure to have her hands full when she tackles Ohio State university at Nashville this afternoon. From comparative scores of the Michigan-Ohio State and Michigan-Vanderbilt game, it would seem that the odds are in favor of the westerners, as the best the Wolverines could do was to beat them 10 to 6, while they snowed Vanderbilt under by the score of 24 to 6.

Coach McGugin has been drilling the Commodores steadily during the past week, however, and the team is said to have reached its best shape, and Captain Blake is confident that if the Commodores do not win, they will at least hold Ohio State to a close score.

TECH FRESHMEN PLAY STONE MOUNTAIN

The Tech freshmen will play Stone Mountain at Ponce de Leon this afternoon as a preliminary to the big game and from all reports the game should be a hummer.

Stone Mountain has one of the huskiest teams in the history of the school, and has been making all the other prep schools in the state hurry this year, but the freshmen are some pumpkins themselves, and are confident that they can cop the winning.

The first half will start at 2:15 o'clock, and the second half will be played between the halves of the big game.

DRAWINGS FOR PLACES IN SAVANNAH AUTO RACES

They Will Take Place Next Monday Night—The List Is Almost Completed.

Savannah, Ga., November 13.—The drawings for places in the light car races on November 25 and for the Grand Prize race on November 26 will take place next Monday night. This was decided at a conference today attended by Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, and other members, who arrived this morning from New York. They agreed with the local automobilists that the drawings should take place well in advance of the dates for the races.

When the drawings take place there will be present the drivers and team managers, members of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, and members of the executive committee of the Savannah Automobile Club.

Drivers and cars are arriving daily, and the list is almost completed.

SEA SWELL WON BY TWO LENGTHS

Jumped to Front and Was Never Headed.

Fourth Race, the Feature at Latonia, Was a Runaway—Sally Preston Took Place From Dainty Dame by Three Lengths.

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 13.—The fourth event for 2-year-olds and upward at 6 furlongs, was the feature at Latonia today. Sea Swell jumped to the front at the start, and was never headed, winning easily by four lengths. Sally Preston took the place from Dainty Dame by three lengths. Three favorites and three outsiders won. Track slow.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs: Mique O'Brien, 100 (Glasner), 5 to 2, won; Medora, 100 (E. Martin), 6 to 1 place, second; Sister Phillis, 100 (A. Martin), 6 to 5 show, third. Time, 1:18 4-5. Battle Fleet, Recite, St. Cotton, Kenmare Queen, Wheatbread, Stowaway, Governor Haskell, English Lass, Colmo, Emily Almanac ran.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs: Claiborne, 109 (Troxler), 12 to 1, won; Killington, 103 (Deverich), 3 to 1 place, second; Ludhiana, 100 (A. Martin), 6 to 5 show, third. Time, 1:19. Marshy, Ornamosa, The Peer, Chalice, Malecon, Pink Linen, Ellsyum, Charlotte Hamilton and Pouting Betsy ran.

THIRD RACE—Mile: Buffoons, 108 (Martin), 3 to 5, won; Dispute, 104 (Glasner), 6 to 5 place, second; Floreal, 106 (Martin), 6 to 5 show, third. Time, 1:47. Roseburg II, Olive Ely, Irrigator ran.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs: Sea Swell, 93 (E. M. Martin), 11 to 5, won; Sallie Preston, 109 (A. Martin), 4 to 1 place, second; Dainty Dame, 119 (Butler), out to show, third. Time, 1:15 2-5. Hanbridge and Terah ran.

FIFTH RACE—Five and a half furlongs: Snake Mary, 114 (Martin), 6 to 1 straight, won; Marmoream, 114 (Griffin), 3 to 1 place, second; Harriet Rowe, 96 (Kennedy), out to show, third. Time, 1:10 4-5. Hasty, Western Knight, Pete, Robin Hood, Sam Clay, Bosserian, Brown Jug, E. S. Whitaker also ran.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and a sixteenth: Apt, 95 (E. Martin), 3 to 1 straight, won; Gilvedear, 107 (Griffin), 6 to 1 place, second; Gambrinus, 109 (Butler), even to show, third. Time, 1:52 4-5. The Shaughrun, Rawford, Quagga, Washakie, Stone Street, Dainty Belle, Glaucus, Canoplan also ran.

AT OAKLAND.

Oakland, Cal., November 13.—There was no feature to the card at Emoryville today, and while the card was an ordinary one, interesting sport resulted. Favorites and well-played horses were successful. Charley Payne proved a disappointment in the fourth. He was favorite, but stopped badly after showing early speed. Military Man closed fast and won driving from Spring Ban and Orchan.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs, selling: Hazlet, 105 (Ross), 2 to 1, won; Novgorod, 107 (Upton), 4 to 1, second; Marchtula, 99 (Sweet), 7 to 5, third. Time, 1:13 4-5. Calera, Prince Ormonde, Smiling Jack and Roy Shumway also ran.

SECOND RACE—Six and a half furlongs, selling: Amada, 103 (Kirschbaum), 4 to 1, won; Distributor, 107 (King), 7 to 1, second; Royal N., 110 (Rettig), 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:21 1-5. San Oak, Bryan Brou, Mike Asheim, Mistress of Roll, Sir Angus also ran.

THIRD RACE—Mile and 70 yards, selling: Be Thankful, 106 (Kirschbaum), 7 to 5, won; Milshora, 102 (Walsh), 8 to 5, second; Rotrou, 107 (Gilbert), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:45 1-5. Rosy Light and Royal Red finished as named.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and 70 yards, selling: Military Man, 100 (Russell), 18 to 5, won; Springhan, 102 (Walsh), 16 to 5, second; Orchan, 97 (Sullivan), 9 to 1, third. Time, 1:45. Charley Payne and Lazell finished as named.

FIFTH RACE—Six and a half furlongs, selling: Astronomer, 108 (Upton), 6 to 5, won; Smiling Metzner, 102 (C. Russell), 7 to 1, second; Von Tromp, 105 (Taplin), 14 to 5, htird. Time 1:15 4-5. Ed Ball Kokomo and George P. McNear ran.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs selling: Sempronium, 105 (Walsh), 11 to 5, won; Toll Box, 109 (Powers), 6 to 5, second; Aunt Kit, 102 (Post), 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:13 4-5. Jim Hanna, Guerrara, Ornate, Coppitt and Caronia ran.

BIG CROWD WITNESSED FOUR GOOD BOUTS

Despite the inclement weather, quite a large crowd attended the boxing carnival at the Armory hall last night. Everything was pulled off in tip-top shape, and Captain Beavers, Sergeant Terry and their policemen were again on hand. Referee Sims was again in charge of the contests. Each bout was for six rounds.

The first bout between Kid Ruff, of Atlanta, and Kid Wolfe, of Macon, was a trifle in the former's favor, though no decision was rendered.

The second bout, between Billy Slim and Kid Welch, was all in Slim's favor, and had he so desired he could have put in the deciding punch at any time. At the conclusion of the bout Slim challenged any 115-pound fighter in the south for any amount and side bet.

The Julius Casper-Johnnie Wood bout was all Wood's way. Casper had a funny cover-up and seemed to have no steam behind his blows. In the fourth round he sank to the floor exhausted and was counted out.

Chris Cacher, the "Terrible Greek," did not prove to be as terrible as it was supposed he would be. "Happy" Trent felt around to get an opening for the first three rounds and then played with him at will and could have put him out if he so desired.

J.P. Those suffering from weaknesses which sap the pleasures of life should take Juven Pills. One box will tell a story of marvelous results. Al Murphy Defeated.

Missoula, Mont., November 13.—Al Murphy, who claims the middleweight wrestling championship of Canada was defeated here last night by Joe Tebearge, a local wrestler, in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout. The first fall went to Murphy in 11 minutes, but he injured his right wrist severely. Tebearge took the second and third falls rather easily in three minutes and thirty seconds and three minutes and thirty-five seconds, respectively.

I Have Been Making Real Estate Loans for 20 Years Without Losing a Dollar for My Clients

To Those Who Want to Share in the Certain Dividends of the "Atlanta Spirit:"

I do not make the above statement in a boastful way, but merely as a statement of fact. The reason for my success is a simple one. I have constantly advised and made investments for my clients in Atlanta real estate. Growing Atlanta and progressive Atlantans have furnished the profits.

Everyone knows that the biggest profits as well as the best security belong to improvement of central business property. It was to give the public a chance to share in just these unequaled advantages that I have organized the Realty Trust Company, the subscription books of which are now open. I have also inaugurated in the South the Co-Operative Ownership Plan which has built up the best cities in the East and West, and made rich their citizens, including wage-earners and those on small salaries.

My prospectus and illustrated folders describe this plan in detail and will be sent upon request. I have also bought $90,000 worth of property on North Forsyth street for the erection of modern, fire-proof buildings to meet the demands of waiting tenants. I have signed up a number of these, including a ten-year lease for an up-to-date theatre.

The Constitution had this to say regarding the profits I have made some of my customers:

"Mr. Ansley secured a railway right-of-way into Atlanta in 1902 which he sold to Harry Atkinson for less than a million dollars. It is now conceded to be worth three times that amount.

"In 1904 Mr. Ansley secured the purchase of old land lot 105 when he had but $2,500 of his own. Within six months he paid $60,000 each to Walter P. Andrews and Lee Douglas for their interests in the land lot (now Ansley Park) which only cost them $12,500. Mr. Ansley also made $250,000 in profits for W. F. Winecoff in Ansley Park and a Cuban deal within eighteen months. Mr. Winecoff's original share in the Park being also $12,500. To Hugh Inman he gave 25 acres for financing the deal which he recently bought back for $60,000 from Mr. Inman.

"Mr. Ansley persuaded John Grant to purchase a lot on North Forsyth street and erect a building, the total cost being $26,000. Within five months this property was sold at a net profit of $9,000 while the purchaser was guaranteed over 11 per cent on this $35,000 purchase."

I only mention these instances as proof of the profits in Atlanta real estate. I am confident my North Forsyth improvements will result in being the best investments I have ever offered. The tenants are waiting.

CLEMSON TIGERS HOPE TO HOLD TENNESSEE

Clemson College, S. C., November 13.—(Special.)—The unexpected defeat that the University of Georgia gave the Tigers in Augusta last week has served to add much vim to the practice on the local field. Clemson rather expected to win from Georgia. The teams were about evenly matched, but luck was certainly against the Clemson bunch.

Harder practice than usual has been the program this week. The team journeys to Knoxville Saturday to stack up against the strong team of the University of Tennessee. Certainly everybody expects a team that held Vanderbilt down to two touchdowns and a field goal to win from the Tigers Saturday.

But the Clemson boys hope to give a good account of themselves, if they can hold the Volunteers to three touchdowns they will feel that they have done well.

Clemson will go into the game without Full Back Robbs, who is still suffering from an old hurt. Captain Coles will hardly be in the line-up either. He had to consult a specialist about his arm after the game in Augusta and it is doubtful whether he plays any more this season. Odom is crippled, but he will go into the game any way. White is developing wonderfully at quarter. He is quick and heady. The whole team is in fine condition, barring the above mentioned.

Coach "Bob" Williams will come to Clemson November 16 to help Coaches Stone and Fetzer whip the Tiger bunch into shape to tackle the Yellow Jackets on Thanksgiving day.

Williams is one of the south's most famous coaches. He it was who trained the South Carolina squad in 1902, when that team beat Clemson 12 to 6. Heisman was in charge at Clemson at the time. Then this same redoubtable Williams coached Clemson in 1906, the season that no man crossed the Tiger goal line. Three games were tied that year and one team managed to kick a goal from the field. The dope favored Tech in 1906, but Clemson took the Thanksgiving contest.

Shaughnessey trained Clemson in 1907. The team did well, but the dope was decidedly in favor of Tech. Clemson sent for Bob Williams. He spent a week with the Tigers and on Thanksgiving day the dopesters got theirs when Clemson walked away with the game.

So, there's hope in the Tiger camp. The team may lose every other game, but you can't tell about the contest with Tech on Thanksgiving till the referee's whistle blows at the end of the second half.

Clemson and Davidson scrubs will play here Saturday, November 14.

ALBANY BEAT DAWSON IN BASKETBALL MATCH

Dawson, Ga., November 13.—(Special.) This afternoon an interesting match game of basketball between the pupils of the Dawson and Albany High schools was played here. At the end of the last half the score stood 6 and 6. The game was resumed to determine the tie, Albany winning. Another game is scheduled for Thanksgiving, to be played at Albany.

MERCER WORKING HARD FOR YELLOW JACKETS

Mercer is taking the right view of the coming game with Tech in Macon next Thursday. The men are not overconfident. In fact, they are confident that Tech is stronger than she showed in the game against Auburn, and are also sure the Yellow Jackets will play a fiercer game against Mercer than they did against Auburn.

Mercer does not take any stock in the comparative scores of Auburn v. Mercer and Auburn v. Tech. The Maconites don't believe that the Yellow Jackets are as weak as the score showed, and, consequently, they are working with might and main for the coming game.

GOTCH AND HACK AGREED ON MATCH

London, November 13.—Frank Gotch, the American wrestler, and George Hackenschmidt, the Russian, met in London this afternoon and agreed on a match. The exact date has not yet been fixed.

YANKEES WILL TRAIN ON STALLINGS' FARM

Now that it has been definitely settled that George Stallings will be manager of the New York Highlanders next season, a further report has been given out that the team will train in Georgia.

Stallings has a big plantation at Haddocks, Ga., about 20 miles south of Macon, and the plantation is said to be equipped with a baseball field, and it is on this field that the boys will have their work-outs and receive cornbread and pot liquor for nourishment in true old plantation style.

ARBITRATION BOARD DECIDED MINOR QUESTIONS

Chicago, November 13.—Although the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs and the bolting representatives of the Eastern League and the American Association deserted this city yesterday, the national board of arbitration continued its sessions today. Minor questions having, it is said, nothing to do with the threatened disruption of the national organization, were considered and disposed of.

Jockey Schilling Suspended.

San Francisco, November 13.—The stewards of the Emeryville race track took their first action of the season yesterday when they suspended Jockey Schilling for his ride on Captain Kennedy, second choice in the fifth race. Schilling had won three of the five races, every one in which he was riding, and had earned the cheers of the track visitors, but he took it easy after he had the fifth practically won, and was beaten by a scant nose. The jockey confessed his fault, and was set down. Before his suspension took effect, Schilling rode in the last race, piloting his horse to victory.

GEORGIA-ALABAMA GAME LOOKS LIKE A DRAW

Georgia and Alabama meets this afternoon at Birmingham, in what promises to be a hard-fought, close and interesting game.

Both coaches are claiming the victory, but are not overconfident regarding the result, as they feel certain that a stubbornly-contested game will be the result.

The players on both teams are in the best of shape, and said to be ready to play the game of their lives.

Last year the teams went to a 0 to 0 tie, and this year the odds are no greater. As to weight, general efficiency, experience, speed and coaching, the teams are on a par, and the writer would not be surprised at another tie game, although personally he thinks Georgia has the trifle the best of it. Still it is going to be a good game, just the same.

"BOB" MADDOX TYPICAL OF PROGRESSIVE ATLANTA

county to Putnam early in the last century. His father was Robert Flournoy Maddox, who was at one time sheriff of Troup county and served on the city council of LaGrange with Benjamin Harvey Hill. Becoming convinced of Atlanta's commercial future, Colonel Maddox located here in 1858 and quickly became identified with the city's leading business men. At the outbreak of hostilities, he promptly closed his Atlanta store, organized the Calhoun Guards and went to the front as their captain. Later he was made lieutenant colonel of the Forty-second Georgia regiment, in 1862, and a year later became colonel of the Third Georgia reserves.

After the war he piled up a considerable fortune, as fortunes were reckoned in Georgia in those days. Of Colonel Maddox a biographer say:

"He never swerved from the path of the strictest rectitude, and though he accumulated an immense fortune, there was no dirty shilling in the splendid legacy which he bequeathed to his children, and no stain upon the honored record which he left behind him at the close of his long and useful career."

Of him it was also said that he was as liberal in his religious benefactions as in his support of public enterprises.

Though "Bob" Maddox has been frequently urged by his admiring friends to enter politics, he has steadfastly refused. The mention of his name for council and for the aldermanic board was discouraged by him. He did seek election to the board of county commissioners as a means to do a practical, economic service to the county. He is now the chairman of the finance committee of the board.

His Varied Activities.

Mr. Maddox is today the vice president of the American National Bank of Atlanta, successor to the old Maddox-Rucker Banking Company, of which his father was one of the organizers. The firm was originally established in 1880 to do a cotton and banking business. It had a capital of $100,000 and was composed of Col. R. F. Maddox, J. W. Rucker and W. L. Peel.

Young Maddox began work in the cotton warehouse and his duties consisted of weighing and sampling cotton. Later he entered the bank as collector or "chaser," and from the lowest position has worked his way to the vice presidency of the company. In 1904-5 he was a vice president of the American Bankers' Association, the bankers' national organization. In 1903 he was chairman of the executive council of the Georgia Bankers' Association.

For six years he served as a trustee of the Grady hospital. He was formerly a trustee of the Old Dominion Guano Company. He is today president of the Maddox-Rucker Cotton Company, vice president of the American National Bank, and president of the Provident Realty and Trust Company of Atlanta.

In addition to his membership in public organizations and his attention to business, Mr. Maddox still has time to devote to the social side of life. He is a member of all the leading social organizations of Atlanta.

If what a man's closest friends think of him is any index of his character and capacity, the following tribute from C. C. McGehee, Jr., of Atlanta, who was a roommate of Rob Maddox at the University of Georgia and at Harvard, may be of interest:

"I did not want to see Bob go into politics and urged him against it, but I want to say he is one of the best specimens I know of what a good citizen ought to be, and he has done more for a man of his years than any other in Fulton county."

MADDOX IN RACE FOR MAYORALTY

duced the resolutions calling for a new candidate for mayor. Seconds were sounded from every part of the room. Short talks of approval were made by Robert C. Alston, Walter McElreath, M. Benjamin, Harry C. Stockdell, V. H. Kreigshaber, W. O. Stamps, Fred J. Paxon, H. A. Maier, Thomas D. Meador, Asa G. Candler, Charles T. Hopkins and others.

The Nominating Committee.

The committee appointed under the resolutions adopted was as follows:

J. K. Orr, chairman; Henry S. Johnson, Charles T. Hopkins, John E. Murphy, Junius G. Oglesby, Sr., Robert C. Alston, Fred J. Paxon, Mel R. Wilkinson, Jacob Haas, Jacob W. Patterson, John J. Woodside, Lewis H. Beck, John Carroll Payne, D. Nym McCullough, A. Montgomery, Ernest Woodruff, George B. Hinman, Robert J. Guinn, Asa G. Candler, A. Benjamin, Charles E. Caverly, Victor H. Kreigshaber, David Woodward, Robert S. Wessels and William H. Kiser.

As soon as the committee of twenty-five was appointed, the citizens' meeting adjourned until 4 o'clock in the afternoon in order to give the committee time to reach some conclusion.

Committee Finds a Candidate.

At 4 o'clock the committee met in room No. 104 of the New Kimball to select the name of another candidate for mayor in the December election.

The scene will long be a memorable one to those present. The members of the committee wanted a man for mayor, a man to take the helm at what they believed to be a critical time in the city's history.

They found the man. It was Robert F. Maddox. They went to him. He keenly felt the honor that was being done him, but he would not consent, he stated. He said it meant great sacrifice to him. He was told of the good work his father had always done for Atlanta. He still declined. He was reminded of the honors that had already been paid him by his people. He still refused. Then at last he was told that duty—duty to his city and his people—called him, and then he yielded. A member of the committee sprang up and, seizing Mr. Maddox by the hand, exclaimed:

"You are a great man, Bob Maddox, one of the greatest this city has ever known."

Second Mass Meeting Held.

At 4 o'clock the second citizens' meeting was held in the New Kimball assembly hall. It was a larger gathering than that of the morning. Chairman Orr called it to order and stated that the committee had made a nomination, and the candidate, who for once was sought by the office, had consented.

There was applause.

At the mention of Robert F. Maddox's name the citizens present rose in a mass and waved their hands and hats and handkerchiefs as they shouted again and again.

Speeches were made by Chairman Orr, E. S. Gay, J. Carroll Payne, Dr. Horace Grant and others seconding the nomination by the committee.

The following committee was appointed to find Mr. Maddox and escort him to the hall: Clark Howell, R. J. Guinn and H. S. Johnson. When the nominee for mayor walked into the room the applause was deafening, and he was visibly affected.

Said Duty Called Him.

Mr. Maddox said, when the applause had subsided:

"No words can express the twin feelings of gratitude and responsibility that swell within my bosom on this occasion.

"That I did not seek—that I did not expect—that I did not desire this nomination, had best be told by others; but having lived all my life in the city of Atlanta, and having been honored by my fellow citizens with positions of trust and importance, when such a representative body as those upon the committee of twenty-five repeatedly urged me to accept this nomination as a duty I owed Atlanta, I could not refuse.

"Having placed me now in the front ranks as your standard-bearer in this movement, I can assure you that I shall endeavor to do nothing either during the campaign or as occupying the high office of mayor of Atlanta, if elected, that may cause any of you to regret your action of today.

"I deeply appreciate the enthusiastic evidence of the hearty support of the splendid citizens who fill this hall, and I shall rely upon you to give me your sympathy and loyalty until the day of the election and your cooperation if we are successful.

"And now I pledge to you and the people of Atlanta, from this hour, my best services for the city we love so well."

On motion of Walter McElreath it was decided to have every voter present become a member of a general election committee.

On motion of R. J. Guinn, the chairman was instructed to appoint a central campaign committee of twenty-five, Mr. Orr to serve as chairman.

Said Woodward Might Retire.

City Alderman Frank A. Pittman expressed the opinion that James G. Woodward might retire from the race if he was requested to do so. This matter was left with the campaign committee.

David Woodward stated that J. R. Smith, whose name had been mentioned as a probable candidate for mayor, had met with the nominating committee, and had expressed himself as heartily in favor of the election of Mr. Maddox. This was greeted with applause.

Short speeches were made by R. G. Wessels and Asa G. Candler, after which the meeting adjourned.

AFRICAN METHODISTS MEET.

The Southwest Georgia Conference Proves Interesting.

Arlington, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—The second day of the Southwest Georgia African Methodist conference was a great day. After the opening, Bishop Smith suggested a general greeting, which brought about a genuine Methodist fellowship, handshakes, greetings to tunes that were moving and inspiring.

The reports from the districts show 183 converts and 2,164 accessions to the churches during the year. The Columbus and Americus districts reported the largest amounts, $1,202 and $1,187. This conference will report a large endowment collection for Morris Brown college.

Bishop Smith is planning a great educational collection of $25,000 for Morris Brown college, and is quietly securing twenty-five picked men for that purpose. The morning lecture by the bishop is one of the features of the conference.

Many visitors were introduced. Rev. Dr. W. W. Beckett, of New York, missionary secretary; Dr. J. A. McDonald, of Kansas City, editor Wesleyan Recorder; G. W. Allen, D. D., editor Southern Christian Recorder; R. D. Stinson, D. D., vice president Morris Brown college; Dr. L. H. Smith, treasurer; C. M. Manning, D. D., secretary Preachers' Aid Society, and others.

Dr. J. A. Lindsay, of Savannah, is among the leaders. He is planning a $40,000 new church for his connection.

Dr. R. D. Stinson will speak at the conference Saturday session. Moris Brown college is owned and operated by the colored race entirely, the entire $20,000 necessary for its annual expenditures being raised by the colored people in Georgia.

BOTH TEAMS CONFIDENT.

Harvard and Dartmouth Both Believe They Will Win.

Boston, Mass., November 13.—More than forty brawny football warriors, constituting the Dartmouth college squad, came down from Hanover, N. H., today, confident of defeating Harvard in the annual game on Soldiers' field tomorrow. On the other hand, the Harvard players and coaches expressed their belief that the crimson eleven would maintain its season's record of not having lost a game, and would preserve this record up to the contest with Yale at New Haven a week from tomorrow.

Tomorrow's game is the most important of the season to be played in the stadium and the demand for seats has been equal to that for any Harvard-Yale game ever played here. Extra seats have been installed and it is expected that nearly 40,000 persons will witness the battle.

BOTH CASES ARE HELD UP

Ex-Mayor Woodward Sick. Witness Missing in Oldknow's Case.

The trials of both James G. Woodward, primary nominee for mayor, and William Oldknow, ex-councilman from the third ward, were "held up" in the recorder's court yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Woodward's case was not tried because it was shown by a physician's certificate that he was ill at home in bed; Mr. Oldknow's case was gone into, but continued by the recorder because police officers stated they had failed to get two female witnesses.

The courtroom was packed as it has probably never been before in its exciting history. Men actually climbed through windows from the roofs.

Oldknow Case Called.

Mr. Oldknow's case was called first. No witness present knew of his having been intoxicated on the night of Friday, November 6, the time he was alleged to have gone to houses of disrepute with James G. Woodward, and no inmate of the house knew of his having created any disorder. Two women knew that somebody had thrown a water cooler down a stairway, but they could not say who did it. They did not see Mr. Oldknow drinking, and if he had any whisky they did not know it, they testified.

Several policemen who saw Mr. Oldknow on the night in question, testified that if he was intoxicated they failed to detect it.

It was in evidence that two women had a fight at No. 14 Collins street, and policemen had been asked to take Mr. Woodward and Mr. Oldknow from the place.

When the fight first came out in the police court, about a week ago, a woman testified that Mr. Oldknow engaged in the fight. That woman was one of the missing witnesses.

Wanted Missing Witness.

"I want the police to find that woman," stated Recorder Broyles, "if they have to search this and other near-by cities. It looks very strange and mysterious that she has disappeared at this time."

"I hope your honor will not cast any reflections on me," began Mr. Oldknow, and he was interrupted by the recorder, who said:

"I don't care to hear anything further from you. I will hold this case open until we find that woman."

When the case against Mr. Woodward was called, Attorney L. Z. Rosser presented a certificate from Dr. James N. Ellis, who stated that Mr. Woodward was too ill to appear in court. Dr. Ellis stated that Mr. Woodward had been suffering for the past five or six weeks with kidney trouble.

Mr. Woodward's case was set down for next Tuesday afternoon.

Resolutions of Citizens Calling For New Candidate for Mayor

The resolutions adopted by the citizens' meeting at the Kimball house Friday:

"Whereas, a critical period has been reached in the history of Atlanta:

"Whereas, the fair name of the city has been questioned throughout the country;

"Whereas, there is yet time to prevent the threatened danger of continued criticism;

"Whereas, the pride of our people should at this time not be bound by political precedent, but the moral tone of the city should be protected by electing a man as mayor, of whom all classes, the laborer and the capitalist alike, may be proud, in order that the city may continue to grow under influences which will carry her forward to the destiny she deserves;

"Therefore, be it resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that a committee of twenty-five be appointed, with J. K. Orr as the chairman, to select the name of another candidate for mayor, to be voted on December 2, and that this name be presented for consideration to another meeting of this body, to be held in this room at 4 o'clock this afternoon."

Turkeys may be high, but the country seem to have the reach.

Prosperity pie will be all right, if promises are not like pie-crust.

Anyway, the tariff has a constitution which they can't talk to death.

Speaker Cannon is doing fairly well if he is still "no worse than his party."

Taft has discovered that all roads lead to the right southern winter resort.

Oyster Bay may soon be asking Augusta, Ga.: "How does it feel to you?"

It will keep some of the brethren hustling about to make room for prosperity.

Mr. Taft is in the hands of his cabinet-making friends, who have their hands full.

As a bill collector Uncle Sam couldn't get a job in the smallest Standard Oil office.

The "friends of the tariff" keep open house for it, but never ask it to take off its hat and stay.

No one wants to stand in Platt's shoes in the senate; the idea is to fill the void where the ghost is.

When the tidal wave of prosperity strikes the country it will need hard horse sense as a life-preserver.

Georgia has thrown the latchstring away, and, of course, as Taft goes through, the doors will have to swing wide.

Now, isn't it a state of affairs when the emperor of Germany is the only citizen who is denied the right of free speech?

In the present state of European politics it wouldn't be safe for the kaiser to crawl into a refrigerator and predict a blizzard.

Don't believe in Professor Starr's theory that the mound-builders were baseball enthusiasts. They would never have given the umpires they killed such imposing memorials.

THE PEOPLE AND THE MAYORALTY.

Responding more than reluctantly to what was placed before him in the light of an inexorable civic duty, Robert F. Maddox finally consented to become a candidate for mayor of Atlanta, at the approaching December election.

Mr. Maddox's consent was obtained only upon the insistent demand of a representative committee of Atlanta's leading citizens and not then until after he found that protest and everything short of absolute refusal to yield to what was represented to him as a foremost public duty, were of no avail.

While James G. Woodward was nominated for the office of mayor in the municipal primary of September 24 and, ordinarily, would receive the unquestioned and unanimous support of Atlanta's voters, recent circumstances, much to be regretted and deplored, have led to the independent action which calls for the election of a candidate who, it is felt, best subserve and represent the city's interests.

No man more deeply deplores these circumstances than he upon whom, it may be said, the nomination has been forced, for in yielding to the public demand, Mr. Maddox has done so at great personal sacrifice.

But, conditions and events having made radical action necessary, no wiser, better or stronger selection could have been made in response to the demand for public action.

Atlanta does not possess an abler or more energetic young business man than Mr. Maddox, a fact which he has demonstrated not only in his personal business as the second official of one of the city's most successful financial institutions, but better still in the active, progressive and result-achieving administration which he gave to the growth and development of Atlanta as president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Maddox has not acted without due thought of the demands which the mayoralty of Atlanta will make upon him. His election will bring to Atlanta the best of his talents, his time, his thought and his energy; it will take these away, in great measure, from a business to whose splendid success he has so largely contributed. For he would not have accepted with any other purpose than to give the city the same determined and devoted service that he has bestowed upon his personal business affairs.

A remarkable meeting of Atlanta citizens, representing every class and business, unanimously indorsed the nomination yesterday afternoon.

With motives solely patriotic and lacking every feature of self-interest except only as the city's good is theirs, they present Mr. Maddox to the people as a man well worthy of their highest consideration and of their implicit trust in their foremost municipal office.

It is most unfortunate that there should have been any necessity for another campaign for the mayoralty—but the public has demanded action.

The die has been cast!

And it is Atlanta's duty to rally to the support of Robert F. Maddox for mayor.

CUBA'S NATIONAL ELECTION.

Today the republic of Cuba chooses a president.

This event, following so closely our own national election, and coming ten days after the death of former President Tomas Estrada Palma, who was responsible for our second intervention in Cuba, has directed national attention to the turbulent little republic.

Following the August elections, the liberals have made common cause against the conservatives. Joseph Miguel Gomez is the choice of the liberals for president this year, and the coalition is pledged to support Alfredo Zayas four years hence. On this understanding the two warring factions of the party have united.

The conservatives have put forward Mario Monecal, who might easily become the George Washington of Cuba. This man is a graduate of Cornell, was an engineer in the United States before entering the ranks of the Cuban army as a private soldier. By sheer force of ability he rose to high rank in the field and afterwards to an important legislative post, but resigned to prosecute successfully vast schemes for Cuba's industrial restoration.

No more commanding figure or a man better fitted by capacity and experience to guide the republic now appears on the horizon of Cuba's political affairs. He is the idol of those who have closely followed his successful and practical work.

The political signs seem to favor the nominee of the liberals. In the electoral college fifty-four votes are necessary to a choice. The conservatives feel sure of twenty-eight votes and the liberals of twenty-six. The doubtful provinces control fifty-three votes. However, the local elections showed that the liberals, by combining, could elect a national ticket, and this combination has been effected.

Under our provisional government, election machinery has been provided which insures the Cubans a fair vote and an honest count, with the exercise of ordinary diligence.

Upon the outcome of today's balloting, and especially upon the manner in which the result is received by the people, will largely depend the fate of the Cuban republic and the question of whether it is to exist as a free and independent state.

The present program of the United States contemplates evacuation following the inauguration of the new administration.

But riots, revolutions and disorder will not be permitted by Uncle Sam. This country will not be content to assume temporary charge of Cuba's affairs whenever they become fatally involved, straighten out the tangles and then deliver the skein into Cuba's hands to be again unravelled.

It is apparent that the Cubans—except the capitalists and American classes, who represent less than 10 per cent of the population—look with abhorrence upon permanent annexation. Our military and civil officials are convinced that only a war of conquest could bring that about.

So the problem will be simplified if the Cubans will profit by past experience and avoid similar troubles in the future. It is plain that part of the former failure was due to the election of Palma, ripe scholar, patriot and conservative as he was, to be the first president of the turbulent little republic.

The volatile temperament of the Cuban people, their tendency to revolt when elections do not favor their party or principles, the menace of graft which is inseparable from an entirely new regime, and the inclination toward paternalistic government are the rocks which threaten the national bark.

The recent financial depression has left its impress. The new administration will be urged to extravagant expenditures for aid in restoring brighter times. This will constitute a source of danger to the national treasury—already none too strong. The public debt already piled up represents few tangible improvements.

With a firm hand upon the helm of government, dissensions, outbreaks, graft and extravagance may be kept down and the Cuban republic firmly established.

In any event, the inauguration on January 28 will be an historic event.

WOULD BE MORE THAN A CHURCH LOSS.

There are no denominational lines in the hope that the Rev. Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's church, will reach the conclusion to remain with the congregation which he has served so long and so well.

Surprise and regret were intermingled upon the announcement that he is considering a call to Christ church, at Little Rock, Ark., where he has gone to conduct tomorrow's services.

Though such a visit means nothing definite, it is sufficiently serious to cause grave fears of the possibility of his departure to another field; for those who know him know his powers to instruct and captivate, and it is unquestioned that those who hear him will want him.

Dr. Wilmer's pastorate at St. Luke's has witnessed and conduced to the splendid growth of one of the foremost of Atlanta's churches; he is a power, not only in his own church, but for the general good.

And so the regret that he should contemplate removal will be general.

Ministers and congregations of whatever denomination, and Atlantans generally, will indulge the hope and join in petition that his ultimate decision will be to remain where he is best known and loved, and where such splendid success has crowned his efforts.

His removal would be more than a loss to his church; the city itself would keenly feel the deprivation.

Slightly Depressing.

"There's nothing that so depresses a man as to recover from a severe illness and then, in nosing around among his wife's things, find a box of nice mourning stationery," says The Hale Hustler-Leader, and The Billville Banner adds: "We've had a similar experience in our day and time. Recovering from a long illness we missed our life insurance policy from a drawer in our desk, and discovered that our wife had lost it on the way to the insurance man to ask if it was O. K."

A Lyric of Memory.

Arthur Symons is the author of this love song to "Memory:"

"As a perfume doth remain
In the folds where it hath lain
So the thought of you, remaining
Deeply folded in my brain,
Will not leave me: all things leave me:
You remain.

"Other thoughts may come and go,
Other moments I may know
That shall waft me, in their going,
As a breath blown to and fro,
Fragrant memories: fragrant memories
Come and go.

"Only thoughts of you remain
In my heart where they have lain,
Perfumed thoughts of you, remaining
A hid sweetness, in my brain.
Others leave me: all things leave me:
You remain."

The Santa Claus Children.

I.

Old folks are gettin'
Right out o' the way,—
Hard for to answer
The questions each day;
The Santa Claus children
Are comin' to stay—
The Santa Claus children are comin'!

II.

"How long till the reindeer
Will run o'er the shed
In the night, when we're tucked up
So snug in the bed?"
And ever this word
Of the little folks said:
"The Santa Claus children are comin'!"

III.

But old folks are feelin'
Like young folks once more,
And music rings sweet
From a fairy-like shore;
Joy knocks at your heart,
And you open the door:—
"The Santa Claus children are comin'!"

The Editor Objects.

The editor of The Alkali Eye doesn't believe there are "heavenly angels" on the police force of far-famed Houston. He says:

"They have imported a lot o' plain clothes men for the carnival thet air beneath th' notice o' any self-respectin' southern gentleman, an' until they depart we shall hereafter remain in our own sanctum sanitarium and dally with th' sizzers and paste. The Nature Fakirs Outdone.

The other day The Hale Hustler-Leader had a story of a marvellous mule. Here is another, from the same source:

"Word comes of the finding of the fossil remains of a tyraunosaurusrex by paleontologists. The giant is said to be heterogeneous with the megalosaurus. It is said to belong to a species of be very rare dinosaurian which inhabited the earth not later than thirty million years ago. The head of the monster weighs 4,000 pounds. The tail, which runs back an unknown distance under a mountain, has not yet been weighed."

GOSSIP AT THE CAPITOL

The book adoption commission is no nearer an agreement on the school books to be taught in the common schools of the state than it has been at any time since it began its work.

One suggestion made yesterday looks to the appointment of a committee of practical educators to look into the problem and report to the book commission. The commission believes it has authority to call such a committee to its assistance, but whether it would be authorized to go to any expense in this direction is not clearly established.

At the meeting on Monday this feature will be discussed. If it is decided not to secure the opinion of a committee of educators, the board will proceed to the work of selecting textbooks. The commission is composed of Governor Smith, State School Commissioner Jere M. Pound, Attorney General John C. Hart, Comptroller General William A. Wright and Secretary of State Philip Cook.

New Judge and Solicitor.

Governor Smith yesterday announced the appointment of William Wynne, of Washington, to succeed Hon. S. H. Hardeman as judge of the city court of Washington, who died recently. L. L. Lynn was appointed solicitor of the city court of Calhoun to succeed Colonel A. L. Miller, resigned.

School Exhibit at Capitol.

For the past several days the work of preparing a place for the exhibits to be shown in connection with the convention of the National Association for the Promotion of Industrial Education, which meets here on November 19 to 21, has been in progress at the state capitol. The exhibits will be arranged around the north light shaft in the capitol. The work of industrial students of every character and from many states will be shown, and it is expected that the exhibit will attract wide attention.

RUCKER WILL SUSTAINED AFTER VIGOROUS FIGHT

Contest Had Been in the Courts for Several Weeks.

The superior court jury in Judge Ellis' court Thursday afternoon decided that the will of Mrs. Mary J. Rucker, that has been contested for some time by some of the heirs, should stand.

The heirs were Mrs. Bessie Miller, Mrs. Annie Lenoir and Mrs. Amanda Houston. The first two are nieces of Mrs. Rucker and the last named a sister. They were represented by Colonel P. H. Brewster, T. J. Ripley and Robert L. Avery. They attempted to show that Mrs. Rucker was addicted to the use of drugs and that she was incapable of drawing up a suitable will.

L. Y. Sage, administrator of the estate, was made the defendant of the estate, and as an offset to the charges of the contesting heirs, showed that Mrs. Rucker was in full possession of her mental faculties to the end, was not addicted to drugs and was capable of drawing up a proper will. He was represented by Judge John S. Candler, Herbert Sage and Charles T. Hopkins.

Besides alleging that Mrs. Rucker was addicted to the use of drugs their main contention was that she was a monomaniac.

The will covered about $100,000, and among the most important bequests were $20,000 to Mrs. Martha Powell, her oldest sister; $5,000 to Mrs. Lena Powell, $20,000 to relatives in Lawrenceville and Decatur, $15,000 for her vault and $5,000 for the Presbyterian hospital.

FOUR YOUNG TRAMPS FORM CLOSE HOBO CORPORATION

They Elected a Treasurer, Who Kept All the Money for the Company.

There were four of them and they were camping on a vacant lot in the suburbs of the city—four hoboes, young, strong and full of vigor, and yet there they were tramping over the country and dodging work like it was the smallpox. The police pulled the quartet and arraigned them before the recorder yesterday morning. The four young hoboes gave their names as J. W. Olson, Andrew Young, Robert McGregor and Paul S. Franklin. They claimed to be hard-working youths, all out of jobs, but railroad men and policemen testified that the four hoboes had been seen loafing around the railroad yard for several days and that while the loafing was going on several freight cars had been robbed by having the ventilators broken out.

When the recorder began to question the four youths he ascertained that they had actually formed a corporation and had elected Olson treasurer. Olson had $10.50 in his pocket, all of which belonged to the stockholders of the corporation of hobos (probably limited).

The recorder fined them each $15 and as the corporation did not have as much as $60 in the treasury the four incorporators will have to spend thirty days in the city chaingang.

SOLD RUGS TO RELATIVES OF PERSONS HE STOLE FROM

Milledge Green Was Caught Stealing Through a Very Remarkable Coincidence.

Milledge Green, a negro, owing to a very remarkable coincidence, was proven by the police to be an expert rug thief and as the recorder bound him over he will probably spend some years in the chaingang. The peculiar coincidence that led to Green's arrest and conviction was the fact that he stole rugs from the residence of L. D. Rickett, 235 Crew street, and sold them to Rickett's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edmondson, at 694 Woodward avenue. The negro also stole rugs from Dr. A. G. Truax, 497 Cherokee avenue, and sold them to Mrs. Julia Parker, at 234 Bryan street.

At the residence of Mr. Rickett the negro found nobody at home, and besides stealing the rugs he helped himself to a lunch in the dining room.

Green made a confession to the recorder, admitting his guilt and stating that he had confederates. He declined to say who his pals were, remarking that he wanted "no company to the chaingang."

Garment Workers Strike.

Baltimore, Md., November 13.—Between 500 and 600 garment workers walked out of the coat-making department of Henry Sonneborn & Co.'s clothing manufactory here today as a protest against the piece work system, which was about to be inaugurated. Heretofore the hands were employed by the week. They feel that the change means the reduction of at least 30 per cent in wages.

IN THE COURTS

John S. Owens and W. L. Bishop yesterday filed a petition with the clerk of the superior court praying to be incorporated under the style of the Cement Stone and Tile Company. They propose to engage in the manufacture and sale of cement product, such as brick, tile and stone, with a capital stock of $10,000 with the privilege of increasing same to not exceeding $100,000. Candler, Thomson & Hirsch are the petitioners' attorneys.

In the suit of Mrs. Lettie Rogers versus the Georgia Railway and Electric Company for $4,000 damages for alleged injuries sustained while a passenger on one of the defendant's street cars, the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the defendant. Moore & Pomeroy were the petitioner's attorneys and Rosser & Brandon and Walter T. Colquitt represented the defendants.

J. E. & L. P. McClellan, attorneys for R. M. Mitchell and N. G. Long, yesterday afternoon filed a motion for a new trial with Judge J. T. Pendleton in the case of J. A. Gifford & Co. versus R. M. Mitchell and N. G. Long, the jury bringing in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in that case.

The Central of Georgia Railway Company and W. Berwald yesterday filed a petition with Judge Pendleton against the Atlanta Furnace Company praying that they be made parties plaintiff and that they be given judgment in the sums of $6.44 and $31.10 respectively, as a receiver had been appointed for said furnace company, said receivers' attorney notifying them that they would have to file an intervention before their accounts would be considered. Judge Pendleton signed an order accordingly.

The Georgian Company yesterday filed a petition before Judge Pendleton to restrain Frank Hammond from giving his services to any other newspaper in Atlanta or elsewhere, claiming that they have a five-year contract with said Frank Hammond at a salary of $35 a week as an advertising solicitor. They allege that Mr. Hammond has violated his contract with them and is now employed by The Atlanta Journal in a similar capacity, and as said Frank Hammond is a valuable man in soliciting adds and The Georgian Company believes him capable of getting them a large amount of business, they pray that he be restrained from giving his services to any other newspaper as the result of said contract. Judge Pendleton set the trial for November 21 and issued a temporary order restraining Mr. Hammond from giving his services to The Journal or any other newspaper.

J. E. Cotten, of North Carolina, yesterday filed a petition with the clerk of the superior court through his attorney, Thomas H. Goodwin, for a writ of habeas corpus against Chief of Police Jennings, claiming that he is illegally held under the charge of stealing a suit of clothes, of which he is innocent.

Judge Pendleton yesterday signed an order granting a petition to the Georgia Fruit Exchange. This organization is composed of the leading fruit growers of the state, the object being to handle shipments for the growers and study the markets of the country in order to get the best results.

15 PRISONERS SENTENCED.

First Time Judge Gilbert Has Passed Sentence in Home County.

Columbus, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Judge S. P. Gilbert today sentenced all of the prisoners who have so far been convicted at this term of Muscogee superior court, fifteen in number. It was the first time that the new judge had passed sentence in his home county and the occasion was of much interest to the lawyers. The judge purposely sentenced all the defendants at the same time so as to make a deep impression on their mind.

His lecture to the prisoners on the importance of obeying the law was impressive in the extreme. Judge Gilbert's first sentence was upon a negro who has been selling whisky in one of the suburbs. Two hundred and fifty dollars fine was imposed in another case of similar character, and two men who were convicted of playing and betting were fined $300 each.

WOMAN WAS BADLY BURNED.

When Found Clothing Had Nearly All Been Burned From Her.

Tifton, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—Mrs. John W. Taylor, living 2 miles southwest of Tifton, on the Moultrie road, was seriously, if not fatally, burned this morning.

Mrs. Taylor was subject to attacks, something of an epileptic nature. She is supposed to have caught fire while in this condition. She was alone in the house at the time, and was discovered by two neighbors who saw the smoke in the house. When found, nearly all of her clothing had burned from her body and a portion of the bed burned.

She is in a very critical condition, and her burns may prove fatal.

BODIES WASHED INTO SEA.

The Florence Shay Was Broken in Two.

Norfolk, Va., November 13.—When the life savers from Little Island and False Cape, Va., put out today to the wreck of the three-masted schooner Florence Shay, which was wrecked yesterday, they found that the bodies of the cook and one seaman left aboard the vessel over night had been washed into the sea.

The vessel had broken in two and was rapidly washing to pieces. Captain Gilbert was today still in a serious condition following his experience on the Shay before the rescue of himself and the remainder of the crew.

INDICTMENTS ARE FOUND

Against Former President and Two Bank Directors.

Waycross, Ga., November 13.—(Special.)—The grand jury today returned indictments against George R. Youmans, president, and J. A. Jones and W. W. Sharpe, directors of the defunct Bank of Waycross. This makes two indictments each against the former's officers in connection with the bank's failure.

ATHENS BONDS ARE SOLD.

Work on Waterworks and Sewers to Start at Once.

Athens, Ga., November 14.—(Special.)—The $40,000 of sewer bonds and the $35,000 of waterworks bonds were sold to Captain James White, of this city, at par, with accrued interest. The city will deliver these bonds at once, and the work of improving the waterworks plant and extending the sewer lines will go forward rapidly.

Sicilian Players Coming.

Southampton, November 13.—Among the passengers on board the steamer Amerika, which sailed today for New York, are a company of Sicilian players who are to appear in New York under the management of Charles Frohman. The Sicilians took London and continental cities by storm early this year.

Unionists Carried Porto Rico.

San Juan, Porto Rico, November 13.—The official election returns for the island of Porto Rico were completed and made public today. They show that the unionist party carried all the seven districts of the island, and that the house of delegates will not have a republican minority. The unionists obtained their clean sweep by advocating independence and self-government.

Knights of Labor Adjourn.

Washington, November 13.—At the closing session here today of the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, John W. Hayes, of this city, was re-elected general master workman. The next meeting of the assembly will be held in St. Louis, Mo., in 1910.

WORK STARTS ON NEW ROAD

Electric Line to Run From Atlanta to Fairburn.

The actual survey of the electric line from Union City to Atlanta, was started on yesterday at 1 o'clock, when Hon. W. T. Roberts, of Fairburn, drove the first stake which was the beginning of this great work that will open up and develop one of the finest sections in the vicinity of Atlanta.

The entire country is interested in the great undertaking, and everybody is talking about the wonderful future of Union City. The greatest organization in America—the National Farmers' Union—has its headquarters in Union City, and with its three million members wields an influence that few people are aware of.

All the officials of this great organization have their offices at Union City, and reside there. Hon. Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' Union, says:

"We are going to have a great city, and its future is beyond our present comprehension. The electric line to Atlanta will put us easily in touch with all the balance of the world."

The distance from Union City to Atlanta is only 17 miles, and the route of the electric line passes through one of the most beautiful sections of Georgia. The engineers who secured the contract for surveying the trolley line are N. V. Perry and Frank Lederle, of Atlanta. Immediately after the surveys are completed the line will be located and actual work of construction begun. This will require but a short while.

The officers and directors of the company who will build the line are: W. T. Roberts, president; J. H. Harris, secretary; J. H. Longino, treasurer; Dr. L. M. Hobgood, Dr. J. T. Longino, W. H. McLarin, Dr. J. B. Carmical, J. F. Golightly, D. A. Carmical, W. A. McCurry, W. H. Mims.

Among the other prominent stockholders in the enterprise are H. V. Lee, P. B. Stansell, J. F. Humperly, J. T. Roberts, Judge L. S. Roan.

The money has been subscribed to build the line, and the work of construction will begin at once.

Y. M. C. A. MEMBERSHIP IS ON THE INCREASE

Four Membership Teams Are Working Daily to Add New Names.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Central Young Men's Christian Association membership committee in the association building last evening, it was announced that thirty-five new members had been received since the last meeting, one week ago.

The standing of the different teams in the membership contest was shown to be as follows:

Team—Students 110, Bankers 92, Merchants 87, Clerical 82.

The Students' team, under the leadership of Captain Wagnon, still heads the race, with the Bankers, captained by Mr. Wilholt, running a close second. Since last week every team has more than doubled its score, the Students tripled. The total membership of the association is now close on to 660.

Those present at the meeting last night were:

J. P. Wolford, vice chairman; Messrs. Callahan, Videtto, Clarke, Bickerstaff, Barnes, Cowan, McDonald, Fry, Lovett and Heninger and Dr. Bryant. After supper three short talks were made by Dr. Bryant, Mr. Bickerstaff and Mr. Wolford, on "Why I Am a Worker on the Membership Committee." A number of good reasons were given, among them being the following: Belief in the association as a good place for all young men; interest in young men generally; duty to association and young men; good fellowship, being thrown with the picked men of the association; influence on own life. Reports were also made by several of the workers on membership matters, following by open discussion. Next Thursday a special program will be given at the weekly meeting.

WILL TRY LAWYERS FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

Judge Ellis Has Summoned Judge Candler and Colonel Brewster to Appear Before Him.

Judge Ellis, of the superior court, has given notice to Colonel P. H. Brewster and Judge John S. Candler to appear before him this morning to answer charges of contempt of court as the result of the incident in the court room Thursday when Judge Candler threw an empty glass at Colonel Brewster's chair.

The incident occurred when Judge Candler intimated that the opposing side had bought witnesses and attributed the statement to Colonel Brewster. The latter jumped on his feet and said that anyone that made that statement was a falsifier.

DUMB-WAITER HIT HIM.

Negro Dishwasher Had to Be Taken to Hospital.

Will Harris, a negro dishwasher at Durand's restaurant, 11 East Alabama street, was yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock struck on the head by a falling dumb-waiter and painfully though not seriously, hurt. He was taken to the Grady hospital, where it was ascertained that he had received a cut over the eye and injury in the chest.

The accident happened as Harris, who was pulling a rope for the delivery of the waiter from the second to the ground floor, was standing with his head and shoulders protruding into the aperture. The rope broke and the waiter came crashing down. It struck Harris and he was knocked back on the floor.

Schooner Abandoned at Sea.

St. Michaels, Azores, November 13.—The British steamer Snowdenian, from Philadelphia, November 1, for Messina, put in here today, with the crew of the American schooner Henry Clausen, Jr., on board. The Clausen, Captain Hulsen, from Gulfport, October 7, for St. Michaels, caught on fire at sea and was abandoned. The crew were taken on board the Snowdenian. The Clausen was built at Bath, Me., in 1890. She was 346 tons register, and was owned by J. B. Drake.

INTERESTING REPORTS HEARD BY DAUGHTERS

MRS. WILLIAM CHASE,
Formerly of Atlanta, Now of St. Louis, Chairman of St. Louis Delegation, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Much Practical Work Being Done—Educational Work Among Mountain Children Being Supported. The Cabin John Bridge.

By Isma Dooly.

More accustomed to the system necessary in the operations of a convention so large as that represented here, the Daughters of the Confederacy, in yesterday's session, the third day of their fifteenth annual convention, the assemblies were models in their observance of parliamentary law, and their attention to the various officers and delegates making reports.

It was a notable fact that the portion of each report which seemed to hold more attention and inspire more applause, was that pertaining to the different kinds of educational work being done by the Daughters of the Confederacy in various states.

Marked approval was expressed by the assembly when Miss Alice Baxter, in making her report for the Georgia division, quoted from Mrs. Walter Lamar, vice president, from Macon, who urged the Daughters to do their utmost to create public sentiment in favor of a more industrial form of education, especially in the free schools of the rural districts.

The Rabun Gap School.

Another feature of Miss Baxter's report eliciting interested applause was her reference to the aid the Daughters of Georgia are giving to Andrew J. Ritchie, who founded the industrial school at Rabun Gap for mountain boys and girls, desendants of confederate soldiers. This school is centered in the most isolated community of the mountainous portion of the state, not within any close proximity to any town or village, and an institution with no endowment or permanent maintenance save that of the energetic spirit of Mr. Ritchie, who collects the money by great struggle from individuals and has had the cooperative influence of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the State Federation of Woman's Clubs inspiring his effort, though unable to give large sums of money.

Kentucky and Tennessee reported many scholarships given by the Daughters of those states to mountain boys and girls, descendants of confederates.

Cabin John Bridge.

Missouri's report covered splendid work along relief lines, and noted the effort to have replaced the name of Jefferson Davis on the Cabin John Bridge, built by him as a civil engineer before the war.

The name was subsequently erased. It was found out through the Missouri Daughters, that the name was erased by one Caleb Smith "under orders."

Mrs. Stone stated that while in Washington, D. C., she saw President Roosevelt and requested that he use his authority to have the name replaced. He promised to take up the matter with the secretary of war, Luke Wright. General Wright was seen and he was equally courteous, "and that is the status of the case now," said Mrs. Stone, concluding this incident of the meeting.

The chairman of the Maryland division was accorded a warm welcome; the same warmth was expressed at the reading of Virginia's report, and from Oklahoma, Mexico City, Oregon, Illinois, Indiana, New York, North Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana came splendid reports.

Invited to Rome.

Mrs. James A. Rounsaville of Rome, Ga., extended a cordial invitation to all daughters who were interested to visit Miss Berry's Industrial school for boys near Rome, Ga. She explained how this fine institution had as founder and continued good angel Miss Martha Berry, of Rome, Ga., who has given a portion of her private fortune to the work, and gives more in her untiring effort in behalf of the school, which has been pronounced by educational authorities one model for the industrial education of boys.

Mrs. Lipscomb Introduced.

Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, of Athens, Ga., president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, who is in the city in attendance upon a meeting of the executive committee of that organization, was invited to the platform and introduced. She brought fraternal greetings from the Georgia Federation and congratulated the daughters on their work, especially on those of memorials, which perpetuated the memory of the dead and benefited the living.

Mrs. Behan, of New Orleans, was given a warm welcome when she was introduced as the president of the Confederate Memorial Association, and brought fraternal greetings from that organization.

Platform Guests.

Through the mistake of a delegate who, by request, gave the names of the platform guests to the press, the title of referee for Georgia was given Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Gabbett, when it should have been stated that Mrs. Gabbett was honorary president for life of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She received a special invitation from Mrs. Stone to be present at the convention as one of the guests of honor.

In Chair of Davis.

Again to the chair once belonging to Jefferson Davis came Mrs. Stone promptly at 2 o'clock, when the afternoon session of the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention was called to order. The chair is the property of Mrs. S. E. Gabbett, custodian of the Cross of Honor, and was loaned by her to the convention, that the president general might occupy it.

The minutes of Thursday's meeting and of Friday morning's session were read, corrected and accepted. The reports of division presidents were read, those responding representing California, District of Columbia, Mississippi, Alabama, each one bringing out the beautiful and varied and active work being accomplished by the Daughters in all sections.

The number of talented literary women in the convention made most appropriate the resolution of Miss West, of Texas, to the effect that hereafter one session of all annual conventions be devoted to the presentation of southern literature and poetry by southern authors.

Among the talented women authoresses in the convention are Mrs. Virginia Clay Clopton, of Alabama; Mrs. Childes, of Kentucky, now of New York; Miss Fannie Andrews, now residing in Montgomery, that talented Georgia woman whose last contribution to the southern literature is "The Diary of a Georgia Belle."

Mrs. McGuire, of Oregon, and Miss Barber, of Kentucky, have delighted their hearers in their interpretation of southern dialect and darkey stories.

Mrs. Rounsaville's Announcement.

In regard to the trip being arranged by Mrs. James A. Rounsaville, of Rome, for the ladies who desire to visit Miss Berry's school near Rome, on Monday, Mrs. Rounsaville makes the following announcements:

Train on Southern leaves Atlanta 7:20 a. m.; returning, leaves Rome at 5:45 p. m., arriving in Atlanta at 8:35 p. m. Train on Western and Atlantic (N., C. & St. L.) leaves Atlanta 8:35 a. m.; returning, leaves Rome 4:30 p. m., arriving in Atlanta 7:35. A rate of 2 cents per mile, or $2.92 for the round trip will be given, provided not less than ten persons attend. If the party consists of not less than twenty, a private coach will be put on for them. The guests will find carriages awaiting them at the stations in Rome, and will be driven out to the school, where they will be entertained at luncheon and have opportunity to inspect all departments of the school.

New Diamond Pieces

Brooches and Rings chiefly.

It's indefinite to say they're superb and of great variety. Doesn't mean very much.

But let them gleam and sparkle and shimmer and flash for you—look at their delicacy of design, their limpid brilliance, their splendid purity.

Examine the craftsmanship that has produced their marvelous settings, the art that has designed them—you'll wonder, you'll admire, you'll investigate—you'll doubtless buy.

We ask your inspection of these new Diamond Pieces.

BOND ELECTION IS IN DOUBT

An Error in the Bill May Stop It

PERCENTAGE IS TOO SMALL

Charter Amendment Calls for 3 1-2 Bonds to Be Sold at Par—Financiers Don't Believe the Bonds Can Be Sold at That Figure.

It looks as if there will be no bond election next year, and that the proposed election for bonds to the amount of $1,500,000 will have to be abandoned because of an error, or rather an oversight, in the charter amendment, which provides for such an election by the city of Atlanta.

The charter amendment calls for an issue of city bonds to be sold at 3 1-2 per cent. The charter states clearly that the city cannot sell any of her bonds for less than par. It is claimed by Atlanta's financiers that it is not possible for the city to sell her bonds for less than 4 per cent. This is what has caused the complication.

A Financial View.

In speaking of the matter yesterday, Councilman John W. Grant chairman of the council finance committee, said:

"I think this can be taken as absolutely true. It was almost impossible to sell the city's 4 per cent bonds at par, and when we did we had to just let the bonds out in driblets. I see no possible chance to dispose of 3 1-2 per cent bonds at par.

"Inasmuch as the city cannot sell bonds below par, there is really no use, as far as I can see, for holding any bond election next year. The legislature cannot meet until June to correct the error."

The error was discovered by Councilman-elect Amorous, who, realizing that council of next year would have to dispose of the bonds if the election carried, began an investigation as how to best get rid of them.

WILD WEST SHOW BY MARIST COLLEGE

With a dozen boys on horseback, charging around the campus, a score of youngsters busily engaged in learning Indian yells and with prairie schooners, tepees, lariats and all the properties of a wild west show stacked up in the armory, the Marist College boys are making plans for their big "102 Ranch" show. This amateur Buffalo Bill event is scheduled for next Thursday afternoon, and is certain to be one of the best school entertainments of the year. It is for the benefit of the Marist athletic fund.

George W. Connor, assistant manager of the Pawnee Bill show, who regularly has charge of the Osages and Sioux with the Pawnee Bill outfit, and who is known by them as "Little Buckshot," is drilling the boys, with the assistance of Physical Director Joe Bean. Mr. Connor has been with Pawnee Bill's show for five years, and is an expert in all branches of the game, so his services are proving invaluable to the Marist authorities in whipping the boys into shape for the performance.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR WRECK.

Inquiry Being Conducted by Railroads and Coroner.

New Orleans, November 13.—Not until the official investigation by the coroner and grand jury does it seem probable that the responsibility for the Little Woods railroad wreck of Wednesday and its eight deaths will be determined.

Both the Northeastern and Great Northern roads, the two concerned in the wreck, are conducting a secret inquiry of their own, but it is regarded as unlikely that the result of their investigation will be made public before the inquest of the coroner, set for tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

The fixing of the responsibility for the wreck is a matter of great financial moment to the two roads, as the road found at fault will undoubtedly be called upon to pay thousands of dollars in personal damages, not to mention the damage to the rolling stock and other equipment resulting from the collision.

WEATHER TODAY; SHOWERS, COLD

Real Winter Conditions Are Here to Stay---Perhaps.

"Light showers and colder." That is the prediction of the local weather bureau for today, issued yesterday.

Quite a remarkable change took place in the weather conditions during the past twenty-four hours. A storm developed in the gulf of Mexico, near Florida, causing cloudy and rainy weather throughout the south. The cold wave continues throughout the north and west, covering a considerable area, the freezing point being reached as far east as Washington yesterday.

The thermometer is expected to dance down some and then stay dancing between 40 and 50 degrees for some time.

MAYBE I DO, I DON'T KNOW.

"Speaking of dancing," said the Gopher, "well, me for the Barn Dance. Oh, joy! I'm there with the goods on the Barn Dance, but why they call it the Barn Dance gets me. But we'll let it go at that. It's great, old Chap, just try. 'Tother night at the club we tried it and everything went dandy until the backward motion was pulled off, then the floor said hello to my face and I gave the best exhibition of a somersault that has ever been pulled off by an amateur. I did so well I think I will try it at the Orpheum some amateur night. Outside of golf, I think I like the Barn Dance best of any of the sports I have tried and when I master it—well, fellows, the girls are all going to be crazy for a dance with yours truly."

Killed by Automobile.

New Haven, Conn., November 13.—Just as he stepped from a trolley car in front of his home last night, Edwin G. Lindsteadt was struck and killed by an automobile owned by Senator Alton Farrell, of Ansonia. In the car with him were his cousin, Franklin Farrell, Jr., and a woman, whose name the authorities did not learn. Senator Farrell and his cousin will appear before Coroner Mix late today when he begins his investigation.

Will Investigate Andre Rumor.

Stockholm, November 13.—The foreign office has instructed the Swedish consul general in New York to make a full investigation of the alleged discovery on the north coast of Labrador of the grave of Professor Andre, the Swedish aeronaut who sailed in a balloon from Danes island in 1897 in an effort to discover the north pole.

LITTLE BOY BADLY BURNED

Thomas Latham Cochran Rescued From Flames by His Mother.

Thomas Latham Cochran, 2 years old, one of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Cochran, 496 Capitol avenue, was severely, maybe fatally, burned in the back yard at the family home yesterday afternoon.

The lad has always shown a fondness for matches. Shortly after dinner yesterday the oldest child went away from home, leaving Ralph and Thomas Latham in the yard. How long the two boys had been together cannot be said, as little attention was given them until screams attracted the attention of neighbors and Mrs. Cochran. It was a ghastly picture which greeted the mother when she reached the back yard. The child's clothing was a mass of flames, which he was fighting with his tiny hands, while his brother, but a few years older, was doing what he could to extinguish the blaze. Gathering her child in her arms, the horror-stricken mother began rolling it upon the ground, and continued until the flames were extinguished.

In the meantime some one had sent in hurried calls for surgeons. Dr. T. D. Longino responded, and found that the little fellow had been seriously wounded. The burns spread all over the chest, the hands, about the neck and on one cheek. Miraculously, it would seem, the little fellow did not inhale the flames, and therein rests his chance for escape from death. The indications are that he may pull through all right. The little sufferer is the son of Ralph O. Cochran, the well-known real estate man. His mother was a daughter of Colonel Thomas W. Latham, during his life one of the most prominent and distinguished members of the Georgia bar.

Some men think they could give the Lord a good many useful pointers relative to running the universe.

FROM $15 TO $20 SAVED BY PURCHASING THE SOUTHERN'S SCHOLARSHIPS AT ONCE

Many Are Availing Themselves of the Extremely Low Rates Now Offered by the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

Saved $20!

Are you one of the number that purchased one of the special LOW-PRICED scholarships of the Southern Shorthand and Business University this week?

If not, you had better act at once, for the time is swiftly passing and very soon the opportunity will have been lost.

Today the Scholarships at this old-established Business School are as follows:

The $50 Bookkeeping or Shorthand course is only $40! Very soon the $50 rate will be increased to $55. Therefore you will save $15 by purchasing Scholarship now, even if you cannot enter until January or later; the Scholarship can be used at any future time.

The $50 Telegraphy Course is only $35 to those securing scholarship now.

Any two $50 courses for $70; in a short time the price will be $90.

All three $50 courses for $80. Think of it!

But there's no time to lose; go around to the office of the Southern TODAY and arrange for a scholarship; if not today, go Monday.

Let's figure it this way:

Some may not have the ready cash; at 8 per cent $70 will cost only $5.60 for a year; deducting this from the $20 saved on the combined scholarship, you will still be $14.40 ahead, if you should borrow the money; or, should you want only a $40 scholarship, $11.80 would be saved after deducting the interest for a year.

The Way to Get This Bargain.

You cannot afford to miss this opportunity; so if you haven't the money, the most sensible thing in the world to do is to borrow it.

The rush is on; it began immediately after the announcement by the Southern that it would soon move into the largest, handsomest and best adapted business college quarters in the south, and in celebration of that new home-going, would, for a limited time, offer extraordinarily low rates.

MISS OLLIE HEAD,
One of the Southern Shorthand and Business University's Bright Stenographers, Who Holds a Fine Position in Columbus, Ga.

Ask Atlanta's Business Men.

Applications for these special scholarships are being made in person, by phone and through the mails.

Business education is THE NECESSITY of the day! Are you a bookkeeper? Are you a stenographer? Can you receive telegraph messages? If not, your chances for promotion are poor; in fact, it is the most difficult thing in the world to get a start in the commercial world without this business training secured at a FIRST-CLASS COLLEGE.

Ask Atlanta's representative business and professional men about the Southern and you will not postpone this matter any longer.

Call or write at once for special rates. A. C. Briscoe, President; L. W. Arnold, Vice President, Atlanta, Ga. For the present on Whitehall viaduct.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Foster's Reception.

An occasion of brilliant hospitality yesterday was the afternoon reception given by Mrs. S. W. Foster as regent of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., in compliment to the visiting delegates of the U. D. C.

Mrs. Foster's home on Peachtree was handsomely decorated throughout the reception floor with flowers and flags, while the conventional palms and ferns were used with artistic effect. In the several reception rooms bunting in the confederate colors was draped over the hangings and large flags were crossed against the high oak panelling. On the hall mantels candles burned in colonial silver candelabra, and tiny confederate flags in profusion showed from the midst of asparagus fern. Vases of chrysanthemums, pink and white and yellow, were a further decoration. In the dining room the center table had a tall centerpiece of American beauty roses, and from the chandelier were streamers of red and white tulle. Silver baskets were filled with candies in red and white, and dainty refreshments were served.

The punch bowl in an adjoining room was festooned with grapes, and smilax was garlanded on the lace table cover.

The elegant toilettes of the several hundred ladies who called was a striking feature of the entertainment.

Mrs. Foster was a handsome hostess, wearing a directoire gown in pale blue messaline satin and lace with a touch of gold embroidery.

The guests were met at the drawing room door and presented to the hostess by Mrs. Eula B. Griffin, who wore a French gown of black velvet and rose point lace. Receiving with Mrs. Foster were:

Mrs. P. W. Godfrey, of Covington, state regent of the D. A. R., who was gowned in white satin brocaded in pink with an embroidery of silver sequins; Mrs. Edward Grieg Warner, president of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., wore lavender satin and lace; Mrs. F. H. Orme wore black chiffon over white with a trimming in point lace; Miss Anna Benning, of Columbus, wore a white lace gown; Mrs. Mitchell, of Jackson, wore a becoming toilette of black and white.

Among the guests Mrs. Rounsaville, of Rome, was admired in light blue satin and lace; Mrs. A. McD. Wilson wore an imported gown of black chiffon velvet and point applique lace with a velvet toque trimmed with a white plume; Mrs. Carlton Miller wore a cream lace gown; Mrs. Howard McCall was gowned in wine-colored silk voile and lace; Mrs. Prioleau Ellis wore a cream lace gown with a finish in light blue; Mrs. Chas. Rice was gowned in black and white silk and lace; Mrs. Geo. Brown wore a cream lace gown; Mrs. Chas. Bowen wore champagne colored messaline and lace; Mrs. Margaret Dean Morris wore a black lace gown; Miss Ruth Lewis wore a cream lace gown; Mrs. Brown, of Tennessee, wore a black spangled gown over white; Mrs. Spencer, of Columbus, wore a gray satin and lace gown; Mrs. Joseph Morgan was gowned in black lace over white satin; Miss Hallie Ellis wore a princess lace dress; Mrs. W. D. Ellis was gowned in black lace.

Serving punch were: Miss Mamie Houston, Miss Nell Waldo, Miss Laura Sartelle, Miss Louise Massey; and pouring tea were: Mrs. Wm. King, Mrs. Georgia McMichael, Mrs. W. D. Ellis and Mrs. S. T. Marett.

Assisting in enterainment were: Mrs. R. E. Park, Mrs. F. H. Orme, Mrs. Carlton Miller, Mrs Eula Griffin, Mrs. Joseph Morgan, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. Clarence Houston, Miss Kate Massey, Mrs. Minnie Hillyer Cassin, Mrs. H. M. Lokey, Mrs. Howard McCall, Mrs. W. M. Zirkle, Mrs. David Woodward, Mrs. Charles Bowen, Mrs. W. C. Holleyman, Mrs. George M. Hope, Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, Mrs. Grant Wilkins, Mrs. John McCullough, Mrs. Herman Seydell, Mrs. Maggie D. Morris, Miss Nellie Bowen, Miss Ruth Lewis, Miss Lillian Tidwell.

Mrs. Peel's Luncheon.

Notable among the entertainments occasioned by the visit in Atlanta of the distinguished body of women in attendance upon the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. William Lawson Peel in compliment to Mrs. Cornelia Branch Stone, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Mrs. Lizzie George Henderson, a former president general.

Sixteen ladies formed the party, and they were seated at a table elegant in its appointment and decorations. The cluny lace table cover was laid over red satin, the centerpiece was a large silver bowl of red dahlias, and all the color details were in red and white.

Prominently representative of the visiting and the home members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Mrs. Peel's guests were: Mrs. T. J. Latham of Memphis, Mrs. John Brown of Nashville, Mrs. Richard Spencer of Columbus, Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb of Athens, Mrs. Augustin Smythe of Charleston, Mrs. Claude Swanson of Virginia, Mrs. Clark Waring of Columbia, Mrs. R. O. Cooley of Jacksonville, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mrs. Harry Jackson, Mrs. Joseph Morgan and Mrs. Edward Warner.

Afternoon Bridge.

Mrs. J. M. Beasley was hostess yesterday afternoon at bridge tea, the occasion an enjoyable one among the series of parties in compliment to Miss Edith Cofield.

Foliage plants, with yellow and red chrysanthemums, formed a handsome decoration in all the rooms, and in the dining room the table, with its centerpiece of red and yellow chrysanthemums, was lighted by candles under red shades, and the candles were red.

The bridge prizes, a hand-painted puff box and a vase, were won by Miss Alma Pace and Mrs. Marshall Eckford. Miss Cofield was presented a gray leather bag. The score cards were hand-painted autumn leaves. One hundred callers joined the players at tea.

Mrs. Beasley wore a black net and lace gown, and Miss Cofield wore a blue cloth and lace gown embroidered in gold, with a black picture hat.

Needlework Guild.

On next Saturday, November 21, there will be a meeting of the Atlanta division of the Needlework Guild of America, at the home of the president, Mrs. Edward T. Brown. The meeting will be at 3 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock Mrs. Brown entertains at a tea in honor of the guild.

To Mr. and Mrs. Latimer.

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown entertain this afternoon at a reception, which occasion will be a fitting close to a brilliant social week.

Mrs. Peters' Five O'Clock Tea.

Mrs. Edward C. Peters will entertain informally this afternoon at tea from 5 until 7 o'clock, in honor of her aunt, Mrs. C. Helen Plane, founder and honorary president of the Georgia United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the Atlanta United Daughters of the Confederacy. The guests will include Mrs. Plane's friends among the distinguished visitors to the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention.

Dinner Dances Tonight.

As another illustration of Atlanta's growth along social as well as other lines, come the two dinner dances to conclude the week's social gayeties—one at the Capital City Club, and one at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Those who will entertain at the Capital City Club are: Colonel J. W. English, Jr., eight guests; Mr. J. E. Hunnicutt, 8; Mr. Charles P. King 8; Mr. T. J. Lyon, 8; Mr. A. S. Byers, 14; Mr. Lynn Werner, 8; Mr. Robert Campbell, 10; Mr. Clarence Stockdell, 10; Colonel Woodward and others. Those to entertain at the Driving Club are: Mr. J. H. Nunnally, 10; Mr. Milton Dargan, 5, Mr. Wilmer Moore, 10; Mr. A. W. Calhoun, 10; Mr. Carroll Payne, 8; Mr. Austell Thornton, Mr. J. C. Walters, 6; Mr. Scott Hudson, 5; Mr. Calloway, 2; Mr. Winship Nunnally, 14; Mr. Cogdon, 4; Mr. J. G. Miller, 2; Mr. W. J. Morrison, 6; Mr. J. E. Hunnicutt, 6; Mr. Thornton Marye, 2; Mr. Arthur Clark, 2; Mr. Steward Boyd, 2, and Mr. Hall Miller, 4.

To Mrs. Clopton.

A delightful occasion in the series at which Mrs. Virginia Clay Clopton has been the guest of honor was the informal dinner given in her honor last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Jr., the congenial party including, beside the host, hostess and guest of honor, Colonel and Mrs. Robert Emory Park and General Clement A. Evans.

Buffet Luncheon.

Mrs. W. D. Ellis, Jr., will entertain at luncheon today in compliment to her mother, Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, and the other delegates from Athens to the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention. Assisting Mrs. Ellis in receiving will be: Mrs. Lipscomb, Mrs. M. W. Welch, Mrs. E. A. Crawford, Miss Mary Hamilton, Mrs. Lizzie Muer of Athens, Mrs. Ross of Auburn, Ala., and Mrs. Andrew Dowdell of Opelika.

The guests will number thirty-six.

Matinee Party.

Miss Margaret Grant will entertain a party of young girls at the "Red Mill" matinee today, her guests to include: Misses Isoline Campbell, Rosalie Davis, Adgate Ellis, Katherine Ellis, Eula Jackson, Mamie Ansley, Nellie Hood Ridley, Ida Winship, Mary Murphy and Mary Brown. Mrs. W. D. Grant will chaperone the party.

To Miss Cofield.

Mrs. Maxwell Berry will give an afternoon bridge on the 23d in compliment to Miss Edith Cofield, whose marriage to Mr. Joseph Arnold, of Savannah, takes place December 2.

Mrs. Courtland Winn will entertain on the 28th for Miss Cofield, and Miss Alma Pace on the 20th.

Bridge Tea.

Mrs. W. T. Leary's bridge tea yesterday in compliment to Miss Annie Louise Ellis, of Nevada, the charming guest of Mrs. Francis L. Payson, was a beautiful affair, and one of the most enjoyable occasioned by Miss Ellis' visit.

Jardinieres of large yellow chrysanthemums were used with palms and ferns in attractive decoration, and delicious refreshments were served in the dining room after the game, where a number of callers joined the bridge players. The dining table was artistic in yellow, the centerpiece a bowl of chrysanthemums, the silk shades on silver candlesticks in yellow, and silver dishes of dainty things in yellow, the dishes tied with yellow bows. Mrs. Norwood Mitchell served punch from a bowl hung with grapes and set in the midst of ferns.

The bridge scores were girls' heads, hand-painted, and the prizes, pretty souvenirs, were won by Mrs. Harvey Johnson and Mrs. Payson.

Mrs. Leary wore a becoming gown of champagne-colored silk and lace, and Miss Ellis wore a satin gown in rose color, with a black picture hat.

To Miss Perdue.

Mrs. Eugene Pearce gave a pretty luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club in compliment to Miss Julian Perdue, a bride-elect of December.

White and green was the color combination observed in decorative detail. The table centerpiece was a wedding bell of white roses and asparagus fern, the place cards were bags of rice, hand-painted in a design of orange blossoms. The ices were white slippers, and the cakes and candies were white and green hearts.

Mrs. Pearce wore a directoire gown of black satin and lace, and a black hat, trimmed with white plumes.

Miss Perdue wore Copenhagen blue cloth, trimmed with embroidered buttons and braided, and a blue hat trimmed with plumes.

Dinner for Board of St. John's Church.

One of the prettiest and most enjoyable affairs of the week was the dinner given by Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Christian for the entire official board of St. John's church on last Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at their lovely home on East Georgia avenue. Three long tables were laid in the large dining rooms, seating forty guests. The house throughout was decorated with chrysanthemums.

The invited guests were Dr. Joel T. Daves, presiding elder; Mr. Ulysses Lewis, Mr. J. W. Stallings, Mr. W. P. Davis, Mr. F. A. Quillian, Mr. J. J. West, Mr. F. B. Florence, Mr. E. P. Burns, Mr. A. K. Morgan, Mr. C. H. McDougall, Mr. H. A. Thompson, Mr. S. H. Girardeau, Mr. L. B. Sullivan, Mr. C. T. Printup, Dr. P. L. Moon, Mr. Ed. H. Kelley, Mr. J. N. Harris, Mr. H. E. Mashburn, Mr. C. H. Sims, Mr. W. H. Preston, Mr. F. L. Folger, Mr. P. L. Huddleston, Mr. J. C. Manley, Mr. Paul W. Key, Mr. Clarence Wayne, Mr. Rice, Dr. C. A. Broach, Captain Joyner, Mr. Robert Deaveaurs, Mr. P. C. Sterchi, Mr. John Kincaid.

One of the features of the evening was the installation of Mr. C. D. Knight, Dr. A. H. Cochran, Mr. J. M. Bosworth, Jr., and Mr. J. B. Roberts as new stewards.

The ladies assisting Mrs. Christian were Mrs. R. H. McDougall, Mrs. W. H. Preston, Mrs. Nellie B. Hamilton, Mrs. C. T. Printup, Miss Katie Fenton and Miss Louise Sullivan.

Box Party.

Mrs. Howard McCall will entertain at a box party this afternoon in honor of a few friends who are in the city attending the United Daughters of the Confederacy convention, inviting Mrs. Allie Erwin Aull, of Chattanooga; Mrs. Charles Talmadge, of Athens; Miss Nonnie McCall, of Quitman; Mrs. Warren H. Dayton, of Chattanooga; Mrs. A. W. Van Hoose, of Gainesville; Miss Lillian Tidwell.

Surprise Party.

A surprise tacky party was given the 11th to Mrs. M. M. Bleims, at 24 Venable street. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. There were four prizes, Messrs. Arthur Bell and Leonard Liddell and Misses Ruth Bucholtz and Julia Bird winning the prizes. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. D. Bell.

Those present were Misses Ruth Bucholtz, Julia Bird, Ethel Styron, Esther Webb, Georgia Clyburn, Maude Steele, Marie Bell, Ruby Steele, Lottie Bell and Mary Maddox, Messrs. Arthur Bell, Leonard Liddell, Roe Winters, Luke Young, Willie Stradley, George Bell, Joe Boston and Willie Maddox. Those assisting Mrs. Bleims in entertaining were Mrs. C. B. Maddox, Mrs. Sam Bell, Mrs. Lon Bell and Mrs. J. D. Bell.

Sketch Class.

The Saturday sketch class, under the auspices of the Art Students' League, will be resumed on Saturday at 2 o'clock at the rooms of the Atlanta Art school. A model will be provided and the class will be free to mmebers of the league.

Rehearsal of Ruth.

A rehearsal of the opera "Ruth" will be held tonight at 7:30 at Trinity church.

Meetings.

Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will hold their regular meeting Monday afternoon at 3 at the home of the regent, Mrs. S. W. Foster, 549 Peachtree street. All visiting D. A. R. are cordially invited to be present.

The Sodality of the Children of Mary will approach holy communion in a body tomorrow at the 7 o'clock mass and will hold their regular monthly meeting in the Sunday school rooms of the Immaculate Conception church at 4 p. m. Every member is urged to attend. Virginia C. LaHatte, secretary.

The Thomas Jefferson chapter, D. A. R., will meet with Mrs. F. O. Foster, 30 West Eleventh street, Monday, the 16th, at 3:30 p. m.

Copies of the song, "Jacket of the Gray," by S. C. Woodbury, can be obtained at the Cable Piano Co. Several copies were presented to the Daughters of the Confederacy.

COMMISSION AT KNOXVILLE.

Much Interest Shown in Meeting of Country Life Commission.

Knoxville, Tenn., November 13.—Agricultural and educational conditions in Tennessee were given especial consideration today by the commission on country life, named by President Roosevelt, which is holding a session here. The committee invited the general public to be present at the session at Market hall, and lawyers, physicians, business men and farmers were present. Much local interest was shown in the meeting. Congressman N. W. Hale and Congressman-elect R. W. Austin were also conspicuous. Dr. Walter H. Page, of New York, presided, and Henry Wallace, of Iowa, presented the purpose of the meeting. The educational conditions in the rural schools of eastern Tennessee were at once entered into.

California Wants Taft.

Sacramento, Cal., November 13.—A message extending a most cordial and earnest invitation to President-elect Taft to visit California and spend as much time here as possible prior to his inauguration has been sent to him at Hot Springs, Va., by Governor Gillett.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box R, Notre Dame, Ind.

Foot Comfort For $4.00

This is what you'll get when you buy this well-fitting, durable K. & A. Shoe of soft Patent Colt. It is made on a straight last, which gives plenty of room for the toes, and, unlike most shoes designed for comfort, it is quite dressy in appearance. A similar style of somewhat finer material can be bought for $5.00.

A Craftsman Model

Like all the Craftsman Furniture made by Gustav Stickley, this chair is a solid, splendid, comfortable, enduring production.

Fumed Oak, hand-waxt. No stain. Just the natural rich, soft dark brown produced by the fuming process.

No nails. Hand-made, hand-bolted, hand-finisht.

Great soft, luxurious, loose cushions of sheep skin.

A Morris Chair this is, with all the delightful possibilities of easeful comfort.

Think of a long, deliciously lazy winter-evening loll in such a chair. House-jacket. Slippers. Good cigar. Soft, mellow light. Delightful book. Quiet chat. Jolly little rubber. And maybe Her face across the table.

How about this?

BIG DONATIONS FOR MONUMENTS

U. D. C. Raises Thousands of Dollars for Memorials.

MEETINGS ENTHUSIASTIC

Daughters Raised Over $2,000 Last Night, and Reports of Subscriptions to Shiloh and Arlington Show the Monument Funds Now Go Into Thousands.

Although not largely attended, the night session of the general convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was an active one. Though not on the official program, it was announced at the afternoon session that there would be a business meeting at 8 o'clock, and two-thirds of the convention were present at that hour, Mrs. Stone presiding.

Two important reports were made, one relative to the Shiloh monument fund; the other relative to the Arlington monument fund.

Five minutes were given to Mrs. Alex White, chairman of the Shiloh committee, in which to appeal for voluntary contributions, the result being that $640 was in that time subscribed.

The total amount reported up to date in the Shiloh fund collected in two years' time, was $4,358.96. Subsequent donations were $512, which, with $640 collected last night, makes the fund over $5,500.

The report of the Arlington Monument Association was made, the fund now having reached the proportions of $7,261. Added to this was $906, collected last night, with other amounts still to be credited at a continuation of monument business at this morning's session.

The ladies adjourned at 9 o'clock to attend a reception at the Capital City Club from 9 until 11 o'clock.

The Reception.

This reception was given by the Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, with Mrs. William Green Raoul as chairman, and was a well planned and delightful occasion. The guests included, besides the general officers of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the several hundred delegates, all the Atlanta chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and their escorts.

They were received by Mrs. Raoul and the members of her committee in the ballroom, where the decorations were a beautiful blending of the confederate colors, the Georgia flags, and a luxury of palms.

The palms were banked in the corners of the room. Festoons of red and white bunting hung from the ceiling on each side of the wall, and there were flags gracefully arranged on the pilasters.

The orchestra gallery was banked with palms, and at the far end of the room the silken flags of the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy gave a finishing touch to the decorations.

An orchestra played patriotic airs during the evening, and supper was served in the ladies' cafe at 10 o'clock.

Here the decorations in flags continued, and added was a floral touch in white chrysanthemums and poinsetta blossoms.

Seven hundred guests were entertained, and the occasion was one of notable brilliance.

THREE KILLED; FOUR INJURED

Explosion Occurred at Saw Mill in Virginia---One Scalded to Death.

Roanoke, Va., November 13.—A special tonight from Norton, Va., says three men were killed outright, two were fatally injured and two others were seriously hurt in an explosion yesterday at a sawmill plant in Wise county.

The dead are: John Hubbard, Roley Fleming, Mr. Tacket. The fatally injured: Fred Caldwell and Joseph Kilgore. The seriously injured: Thurston Hubbard and E. S. Miller, the latter being the owner of the plant.

It is expected that Thurston Hubbard and Miller will recover.

John Hubbard was a married and Miller is also married. The others are unmarried. The scene of the accident is off from the railroad, and details are hard to obtain. John Hubbard was scalded to death, and the other two killed met death by being cut down by flying fragments of iron and timber.

PRACTICAL ADVERTISING ISSUES FINE NUMBER

One of the most interesting publications, from a local viewpoint, that has appeared in some time is the November issue of Practical Advertising, issued by the Massengale Advertising Agency. This number is devoted to Atlanta matters, giving several interesting articles on local subjects, written by Atlanta business men. Illustrating these articles is a well-chosen lot of halftones, giving views of Atlanta's business center, taken from the dome of the state capitol, from the upper windows of the Candler building and from other vantage points. The faces of several prominent business men also appear.

Among the special articles in this number are one on the importance of the insurance interests that center in Atlanta, written by Howard Geldert, manager of The Insurance Herald; another by E. M. Hafer, on the enormous extent of the railroad interests; one by Evelyn Harris, on the volume of the Southern Bell telephone business, all of them descriptive of large enterprises managed from local headquarters.

Special articles by S. E. Davidson, business manager of The Georgian, and by W. H. Brittain, manager of the J. M. High Company, relate to advertising interests. Other articles of more general scope add to the attractiveness of this issue.

Grant Heads Lake Department.

Chicago, November 13.—Major General Frederick D. Grant assumed command of the department of the lakes today.

SINGER IN "RED MILL" ARRESTED DURING SHOW

But He Gave Bond, and Did Not Stop the Performance.

While the audience sat last night at the Grand very much interested in the presentation of the "Red Mill," one of the cast was threatened with arrest at the hands of a bailiff and the performance would probably have suffered a serious setback as a result. After wrangling at length behind the scenes the actor satisfied the bailiff with a bond of $100, and the players continued their parts without interruption.

The trouble started when Bailiffs Rogers and Porter, of Justice Dodgen's court, went to the Grand with a warrant for Charles W. Sears, a singer and former Atlanta boy, charging a misdemeanor and sworn out by R. D. Ison. At 8:15, just before the curtain arose, the bailiffs asked for their man and were encountered by Joe Stewart, stage manager at the theater, who insisted that Rogers get off the premises. This the latter refused to do, so a couple of policemen were called.

Here arose a question of superiority of authority, in which Bailiff Rogers succeeded in holding his own. The policemen told him that they would back him up with his warrant if he would wait until the conclusion of the performance. This he was reluctant to do, because, he says, he did not have the guarantee that Sears would stay.

The matter was finally settled when the aforesaid bond of $100 was put up for Sears' appearance.

MORTUARY

Miss Miriam Fullbright.

Miss Miriam Fullbright, aged 35 years, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Edward Baker, 109 State street, yesterday morning at 1 o'clock. She is survived by her two sisters, Mrs. Baker and Miss Mary Fullbright, and by three brothers, J. M., Ben and J. W. Fullbright. The body will be taken to Roneville, Ga., today for funeral and interment.

John B. Boyd, Perry, Fla.

News was received in Atlanta yesterday of the death on Thursday of John B. Boyd at Perry, Fla. Mr. Boyd had many friends and relatives in this section and formerly resided in Quitman, Ga. He is survived by three children, Mrs. A. A. Tilley, of Decatur, Ga.; Marvin Boyd, of Quitman, Gr., and Miss Mary Boyd, of Alabama. He is also survived by his three brothers, W. E. Boyd, of Winder, Ga.; G. M. Boyd, of Adairsville, Ga., and by his sister, Mrs. Z. E. Morrison, of Texas. The interment occurred at Quitman yesterday afternoon.

James Vernoy.

The funeral services of James Vernoy, aged 89 years, who died Thursday afternoon, will be conducted this morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of his son, W. A. Vernoy, at 219 Cherokee avenue. The interment will occur in Westview cemetery. The deceased was an old resident of Atlanta and served ment. His death resulted from blood poisoning.

Samuel S. Scudder, 69 years of age, died unexpectedly late yesterday at his home, 350 Formwalt street. Mr. Scudder is survived by a wife and two sons, W. Russell Scudder and Frank S. Scudder. The funeral services will take place from the home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Westview cemetery.

Oliver McIlhenny, Washington, D. C.

Columbus, Ga., November 13. (Special.)—Private telegrams today told of the sudden death of Oliver McIlhenny at his home in Washington, D. C., at the age of 73 years. He was a brother of John McIlhenny, of Philadelphia, former mayor of Columbus and at one time manager of the gas plant here. His family owns the gas plant at Washington. Mr. McIlhenny came to Columbus from Montgomery, Ala. His wife, who survives him, was formerly Miss Georgia Faber, of Columbus.

Harriman Will Not Speak.

New York, November 13.—Referring to published reports that Edward H. Harriman would make an address on "The Outlook for the Railroads" before the Economic Club at the proposed "prosperity dinner" in this city on November 30, it was announced at Mr. Harriman's office today that he had accepted no such invitation, and had no intention of making any such address. The Associated Press was requested to deny the report.

Wireless for Locomotives.

Omaha, Neb., November 13.—Dr. H. Milliner, an electrician in the Union Pacific shops, has equipped a locomotive in the yards with a wireless device which railroad officials declare will greatly lessen the danger of collisions. It enables dispatchers and station agents to signal engineers between stations, thus putting them practically in constant touch with running trains.

Numb Spells

"Cardui Cured Me"

writes Mrs. Maxwell Johnson, of Tampa, Fla., "after doctors and everything else had failed. I had been suffering with numb spells ever since I was 16 years old. I would lie, sometimes all day, like I was dead. One day, I decided to take Cardui, and had only taken two bottles when I began to look and feel better. I have now taken 5 bottles of Cardui and I can say that it has cured me. I advise all suffering women to give Cardui a long and fair trial, before spending hundreds of dollars in other ways and getting no relief, as I did."

Thousands of ladies have written various symptoms of female trouble letters similar to the above, describing and telling how Cardui had cured them.

What do you think of it?

Isn't it worth while giving this famous medicine a trial, in your case, to see what it will do for you?

Try Cardui.

COTTON LOSES 5 TO 10 POINTS

Opening Was Steady and About as Due on Cables.

Active Months Sold Two or Three Points Higher Shortly After the Call, but Soon Weakened Under Liquidation and Bear Pressure.

New York, November 13.—The cotton market a little more than lost its gain of the previous day, closing steady at a net decline of 5@10 points. Sales were estimated at 225,000 bales.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points, or about as due on the cables. Active months sold 2 to 3 points net higher shortly after the call, on scattered covering and a renewal of yesterday's late buying movement, but soon weakened under more aggressive offerings from local bears and liquidation in the absence of important bull support. After showing a net loss of about 6@9 points, the market rallied 4 or 5 points from the lowest on talk of smaller southern spot offerings and a reduction in local selling, after the close of the English market, but the advance was followed by renewed weakness after the publication of the into-sight figures, making a new high record, and the market closed at practically the lowest point for the day. Southern spot markets reported early were generally unchanged and this seemed somewhat disappointing to buyers who had operated on the rumors of firmer holdings early in the day and the decision of southern delegates at Memphis and New Orleans to hold for 10 cents. Possibly apprehension of a bearish census report on November 20 and uncertainty as to the action of the New York revision committee on November 18 have had some influence in prompting the decline of between 14 and 21 points from the level of the season.

Receipts at the ports today were 90,000, against 85,421 bales last week and 66,108 bales last year. For the week, 460,000 bales against 482,433 last week and 57,243 last year.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands 9.25; middling gulf 9.50; no sales.

Sea Island Cotton.

Savannah, Ga., November 13.—Sea Island: Fancy Florida 20 1-2@21c; fancy Georgia 20@20 1-2c; extra choice Florida 18 1-2@19c; extra choice Georgia 18 1-2c; choice 16@16 1-2c; extra fine 14 1-2@15c; fine 13c; common 11@12c; sales 1,734.

Charleston, S. C., November 13—Sea Island: Receipts 1,005 bags; exports 937; sales 1,700; stock 5,711. Market firm; fine 22 1-2c; fully fine 25c; extra fine 27c.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, November 13.—Spot cotton quiet and steady today at unchanged quotations; middling 8 7-8c; sales on the spot were 2,150 bales; to arrive 1,300.

Futures opened steady at an advance of 2 to 4 points. First prices were about the highest of the day for Liverpool, after coming in about as expected, developing a weak tone, and this market declined in sympathy. Longs also sold out because of the expectation of bearish week-end figures. Under the selling prices fell off, until they stood 5 to 6 points below the level of yesterday's closing. No support was offered, and the market closed at practically the lowest of the day. At the close the market was steady, and prices showed a net decline of 2 to 3 points.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, November 13.—Closing: Cotton spot in fair demand; prices 6 points higher; American middling fair, 5.53; good middling 5.17; middling 5.05; low middling 4.85; good ordinary 4.34; ordinary 3.95. The sales of the day were 7,000 bales, of which 400 were for speculation and export, and included 6,000 American. Receipts 13,000 bales, including 11,600 American. Futures opened steady and closed easy.

STOCKS ACTIVE AND ADVANCING

Market Had Appearance of Excited Bull Movement.

Buying Was Done With Enthusiasm, but News of the Day Seemed to Have Nothing to Do With the Demand.

New York, November 13.—No apparent obstacle presented itself to the advance in prices today, and except as bids were raised, there seemed to be no stock offered for sale. The mere fact of the advancing tendency of prices served to reduce the offerings, holders retaining their stocks in the hope or conviction that they could just as well get higher prices for them. Such offerings as were encountered were absorbed with ready confidence. Stocks which have lain dormant were revived by putting in bids at gradually advancing quotations without bringing out any stocks, the result being some remarkable advances in the sale prices over preceding transactions, sometimes dating back months into the period of depression. All this served to feed the speculative enthusiasm, which was prevalent in a high degree. It was manifestly easy to advance prices and the securing of fresh holdings itself conduced to this end. No special news features were dwelt upon to explain the demand. There was a tacit assumption that for all to buy and for none to sell would facilitate the desired end to the best effect. While, obviously, there must have been a seller in each case to meet the buyer, there was no ostentation about the selling, while the buying was done with enthusiasm and with palpable incitement to the advance in prices. The market, therefore, took on all the appearance of an excited bull movement. The general proposition advanced by the enthusiasts was that a quick restoration of prosperity was in sight, with prospects of larger returns to capital than ever before. A prolonged abstinence of huge sums of capital from employment and from any enjoyment of profits, it was pointed out, was bound to give place to an inrush of these funds with the restoration of confidence, which would stimulate highly all lines of production and consumption. Details of this process and the stage of progress yet reached in the improvement played small part in the calculations, or absence of calculations, as did the extent to which the rise in prices had already discounted the improvement. United States Steel was made an object lesson for all followers of the prevalent speculative spirit. That stock forged upwards to successive new record prices, so that each stage of its advance offered an additional profit to any purchase that had ever been made of the stock since the formation of the company. Its top figure of 58 3-4 represented a rise of 2 points over the closing price last night, which, in turn, showed a gain of 1 7-8 over the closing of the preceding night. The expansion in valuation thus represented on the five million and upwards of common stock shares of the corporation represented so potent a force of absorption in the appetite of capital for speculation and investment as to fairly overpower the imagination. It had that effect today, and was the dominant factor in the market. Of the day's total sales of all stocks reaching 1,693,000 shares, those of United States Steel reached the number of 321,800 shares. Simultaneous sales at the opening were of 15,000 shares, and there were numerous blocks of between 3,000 and 10,000 shares recorded on the tape throughout the day. The large proportion of the day's dealings concentrated in that stock and in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, was significant of a centralization of the forces in the speculation. Yet the general demand for stocks continued broad and widespread, and left practically no quarter of the list of securities unexploited. Unconfirmed rumors were circulated of orders of unprecedented volume by some of the railroads for equipment and material. (Deal rumors regarding the Harriman Pacifics also had some revival. These rumors, however, did not receive much more attention than did the marking down of the quotations for copper at the New York metal exchange, or any other news incident of a color different from the prevailing speculative spirit in the stock market. The room traders caused a slight reaction in the final hour in realizing their day's profits, but the advancing tendency was sustained with remarkable consistency, and the closing tone was very strong.

Bonds were strong and very active. The day's transactions were probably the largest for any single day in the history of the stock exchange. Total sales, par value, $8,845,000. United States bonds unchanged on call.

WHEAT HIGHER; CLOSE WAS FIRM

News of the Day Was of a Bearish Character.

But Despite This, the Market Closed Firm With Prices One-Eighth to One-Quarter Higher. Corn Strong—Oats Steady.

Chicago, November 13.—Despite news of a generally bearish character, the local wheat market closed firm today with prices 1-8 to 1-8@1-4c higher than the previous close. Corn was strong; oats steady, and provisions easy.

Trade in the wheat pit was void of any great activity and the session was characterized by considerable nervousness. The majority of pit traders seemed to favor the selling side of the market, but the first signs of any material support from bull leaders caused hasty covering by those who had sold "short." News of the day was chiefly of a bearish nature, the Liverpool market was rather weak, receipts in the northwest were liberal, weather in Argentina was more favorable to the growing crop, and export business showed a falling off. Duluth reported that export business was practically at a standstill and that sales today comprised only eight boat loads of Manitoba wheat. Until late in the session no business was reported as having been transacted at the seaboard, but shortly before the end of the day it was claimed that 48 boatloads had been "worked." In regard to the Argentina situation, reports received today stated that rains were general and that growing wheat would be greatly benefited. Demand for cash wheat was extremely light and prices at the sample tables were about steady. After covering a range of 5-8 to 3-4, prices at the close were a trifle above final figures of the previous session with December at $1.03 1-4 and May at $1.07 1-2. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 600,000 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 5,030,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 981,000 bushels, compared with 617,000 the corresponding day a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 782 cars, against 58 last week, and 447 a year ago.

Following slight weakness at the start, the corn market was strong the remainder of the day, and at the close prices were 1-4 to 5-8 above the previous close. The greatest strength was manifested in the December option, which was in urgent demand by shorts and bull leaders. The principal reason for the strength was the continued light receipts notwithstanding excellent weather for the movement. The market was also bullishly affected by reports from Illinois, claiming poor returns from huskings. Final quotations on December and May were similar at 62 3-4. Local receipts 123 cars, three contract grade.

Oats were firm early in the session, but became weaker late in the day as a result of selling by leading elevator interests. A decline of 1c in feed barley and of 1-2c in cash oats was responsible for much of the selling. The market closed easy with prices unchanged to 1-8c lower, with December at 49@49 1-8 and May at 51@51 1-8. Local receipts 138 cars.

Provisions were weak nearly all day owing to selling brought out by a 5 to 10c decline in live hogs. Receipts of live hogs were again extremely liberal, total arrivals today at western points being 78,400 head, against 41,300 a year ago.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat 40 cars; corn 155; oats 119; hogs 18,000 head.

HESTER'S WEEKLY COTTON STATEMENT

New Orleans, La., November 13.—Secretary Hester's weekly New Orleans cotton exchange statement, issued before the close of business today, shows an increase in the movement into sight compared with the 7 days ending this date last year, in round figures, 197,000, an totals show an increase over last year fore last of 83,000, and an increase over the same time in 1905 of 157,000.

For the 13 days of November the total shows an increase over last year of 347,000, and an increase over the same period year before last of 94,000, and an increase over the same time in 1905 of 262,000.

For the 74 days of the season that have elapsed the aggregate is ahead of the 74 days of last year 1,394,000, ahead of the same days year before last 495,000, and ahead of 1905 by 691,000.

The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 650,448 bales, against 453,472 for the 7 days ending this date last year, 567,910 year before last, and 493,124 same time in 1905; and for the 13 days of November it has been 1,194,367, against 847,560 last year, 1,100,362 year before last, and 932,790 same time in 1905.

The movement since September 1 shows receipts at all United States ports 3,553,955, against 2,516,665 last year, 3,283,969 year before last, and 3,052,999 same time in 1905. Overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada 282,034, against 124,342 last year, 199,162 year before last, and 166,970 same time in 1905; interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year 566,884, against 320,475 last year, 372,027 year before last, and 447,737 same time in 1905; southern mills' takings 528,000, against 575,712 last year, 580,678 year before last, and 572,602 same time in 1905.

These make the total movement for the 74 days of the season from September 1 to date 4,930,853, against 3,537,194 last year, 4,435,836 year before last, and 4,240,308 same time in 1905.

Foreign exports for the week have been 307,350, against 288,148 last year, making the total thus far for the season 2,370,436, against 1,719,682 last year, an increase of 650,756.

Northern mills' takings and Canada during the past 7 days show an increase of 51,444, as compared with the corresponding period last year, and their total takings since September 1 have increased 328,624. The total takings of American mills, north, south and Canada, thus far for the season, have been 1,260,600, against 982,539 last year. These include 725,868 by northern spinners, against 397,244.

Stocks at the seaboard and the 29 leading southern interior centers have increased during the week 149,402 bales, against an increase during the corresponding period last season of 26,931, and are now 398,183 larger than at this date in 1905.

Including stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop and the number of bales brought into sight thus far from the new crop, the supply to date is 5,212,200, against 3,885,200 for the same period last year.

Hester's World's Visible Supply Statement.

New Orleans, November 13.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows an increase for the week just closed of 224,259, against an increase of 151,403 last year and an increase of 184,864 year before last.

The total visible is 3,842,159, against 3,617,900 last week, 3,523,361 last year and 3,800,068 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 3,289,159, against 3,092,900 last week, 2,737,485 last year and 3,039,068 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 553,000, against 525,000 last week, 785,876 last year and 761,000 year before last.

The total world's visible supply of cotton, as above, shows an increase compared with last week of 224,259, an increase compared with last year of 318,798 and an increase compared with year before last of 42,091.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton, as above, thereis now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 1,983,000, against 1,900,000 last year and 1,770,000 year before last; in Egypt 166,000, against 150,000 last year and 165,000 year before last; in India 112,000, against 297,000 last year and 325,000 year before last, and in the United States 1,581,000, against 1,176,000 last year and 1,540,000 year before last.

Bradstreet's Trade Review.

New York, November 13.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that expansion continues in trade and industrial lines, shipments over the railways are increasing, idleness is being diminished, prices in numerous lines are higher; collections are better, and sentiment is brighter than it has been for twelve months past. In many sections retailers' stocks are badly broken, owing to conservative purchases heretofore made, and as a result requests for immediate shipments are quite the rule. On this account and because of more seasonable weather, sorting-up orders in wholesale and jobbing lines are of larger volume. Spring business is also developing quite freely, although widespread improvement in this direction is not looked for until after the turn of the new year. Demand for holiday goods is increasing. Practically every section save the south, and where the supply of water has been insufficient for industrial operations, as, for instance, parts of New England, has shared in the general improvement. At the south the weather has not been entirely seasonable, and in some parts the holding of cotton for higher prices makes for dullness in trade and slowness in collections. On the whole, the situation is becoming more favorable, though it must be recognized that outdoor operations tend to contract with the coming of winter, that some recent expansion has been tinged with a certain degree of speculation, based on anticipations of what is to come, and that the improvement may be slow in reaching the less important centers.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 22, which compares with 33 last week, and 45 in this week last year.

Wheat, including flour exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending November 13 aggregate 5,029,484 bushels, against 4,940,274 bushels last week, and 6,192,944 bushels this week last year. (For the twenty weeks ending November 12 this year the exports are 83,784,240 bushels, against 79,920,351 bushels in the corresponding period last year.

Corn exports for the week are 372,808 bushels, against 812,584 bushels last week, and 1,133,488 bushels in 1907. For the twenty weeks ending November 12 corn exports are 2,392,059 bushels, against 19,206,280 last year.

Dun & Co.'s Trade Review.

New York, November 13.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade tomorrow will say that expectations are being fully realized in the increased demand for manufactured products that each day reduces the percentage of idle machinery and the number of unemployed. The depleted condition of stocks is disclosed as business expands and throughout all industrial channels there is a sudden pressure to meet requirements that assures activity for some time at least.

Higher prices for pig iron followed the increase in demand, consumers providing for requirements well into the future, including material for finished steel to be delivered in the spring. Furnaces have added still further to the active capacity and some have contracted for much of their output up to July 1. The better feeling is also reflected in the ore market and if weather conditions permit the movement down the lakes will probably be increased to 25,000,000 tons for the season. Several of the railways are in the market for steel rails, although few important contracts were actually placed this week.

In the primary market for dry goods, merchants are operating on a more liberal scale than at any time since a year and a half ago. Cotton mills are rapidly resuming, but accept business only where the raw cotton is controlled and an assured basis of profit can be established. Some prices have already advanced and others are contemplated. Export business continues restricted, foreign buyers considering the higher values as excessive. While clothiers' salesmen have ascertained the trend of demand, there is still an inclination to proceed cautiously in placing orders for duplicate lines of spring woolens, so as to be prepared for the normal quantity of cancellations. A better movement of spring goods is anticipated as soon as colder weather reduces stocks of heavyweights.

Manufacturers of boots and shoes report a substantial increase in the orders placed by jobbers and retailers, whose stocks have been allowed to become depleted, and who now anticipate a much larger demand. Not a small factor in the urgency of buyers is the upward tendency of materials, which may soon be reflected in higher prices for some grades, leading tanners asking two cents more for heavy sole and about one cent for light stock. Increased activity and strength is noted in every variety of hides.

As to "blaming" the other fellow

With our advertisement before you day after day, you'll have only yourself to blame when you discover that—quality considered—you have been paying two prices for your Printing and Lithography. Don't blame the men who have been doing your work—they may have done "their" best, and are not responsible for the fact that "their" and "the" do not stand for the same thing. The result is the same to you, however—and while you're waiting for evolution to overtake them, we'll be glad to deliver the sure-enough goods. "The" best-at-lowest-price way—try it to-day.
